RUSH SUPPLIES FOR VICTIMS OF TIDAL WAVE; 26 ARE DEAD

Many Homeless After Disaster; Need Fuel And Food

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 22.—Fearing food and medical supplies, government vessels were steaming at full speed for the south coast of Newfoundland today to bring aid to thousands left helpless by a gigantic tidal wave which killed twenty-six persons and destroyed miles of waterfront property.

Crippled communications today still prevented a complete check-up of the damage wrought when the huge wall of water rose up from the sea after a violent earthquake shock on Monday inundating towns and hamlets on the coast and obliterating valuable fishing property.

As soon as word was received of the disaster the government steamer Meigle was dispatched to the Burin peninsula, which bore the full brunt of the tidal wave. Other steamers in the vicinity are rushing to the scene.

Wireless communication with Burin was re-established early today for the first time since the earthquake shock and the subsequent tidal wave. Operator Cox of the Burin station sent a graphic account of the tidal wave to International News Service here.

"Eight deaths occurred in Point Au Gaul, seven in Port Au Bras, four at Taylor's Cove, four at Lord's Cove, two at Kelly's Cove and one at Allan's Island," Cox's radio read.

Allan's Island was swept of all its fishing stages and stores, while Port Au Gaul lost all its fishing property, provisions and coal supplies. In addition, three houses and several other buildings were destroyed at the latter place.

"Fifteen families are homeless at Taylor's Cove.

"St. Lawrence and Corbin were swept clean of waterfront property and fishing boats, while Lancelau lost one house and all its fishing gear. Great Burin and Kelly's Cove were stripped of waterfront premises and at Port Au Bras, eleven houses, fourteen schooners and all dories and skiffs, as well as waterfront provisions, were carried away or destroyed.

"The post office at St. Lawrence is swinging at anchor in the middle of the harbor. Nothing is left of the Lord's Cove telegraph office. "Not since the year before the outbreak of the American Civil War when 300 lives were lost on the same coast by a tidal wave, has the country faced such privation and distress from lack of fuel and food."

Reports from the stricken district indicate that many survivors of the disaster are suffering keenly from exposure and shock. The fact that the tidal wave swept in after dark added to the horror and distress, the populace being rendered panic-stricken as the rushing wall of water tore down buildings and homes as if they were match-wood.

Check-up of the property damage as yet is impossible, but it is apparent the disaster completely paralyzed the winter fishery, upon which the people of the Burin peninsula depend for the necessities of life.

TRIED SECOND TIME ON MURDER CHARGE

PORTSMOUTH, O., Nov. 22.—With his life at stake again, Joseph Locke, aged 50, a man of many marriages, who allegedly shot and killed the mother of his seventh girl-son, will go on trial on first-degree murder charges here today.

Locke was convicted by a jury in Common Pleas Court here on June 5 on a charge of slaying Mrs. Mary Galloway, the mother of his 17-year-old wife, Lucy. The young girl was his seventh bride. He was sentenced to die in the electric chair at the Ohio State Penitentiary.

The Supreme Court saved him, however, and ordered a second trial, because his "girl-son" had testified against him at his first trial.

The jury at the first trial disregarded the man's plea of insanity, which was based upon his assertion that a man "is not entirely sane when he is in love."

HONESTY WINS

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Keenly fought couple with honesty today had won $5,000 for Frank de Luca, taxi driver. Noticing a shining object in the gutter as he cruised along, De Luca stopped and picked up a $5,000 reward slip. A grateful owner today was to hand De Luca the reward.

CHEST DRIVE NEARS HALF-WAY MARK IS REPORT FOR FRIDAY

Workers Show $4,163.71 Collected In First Three Days

Hope for the success of the second annual Xenia Community Fund campaign bubbled over at chest headquarters Friday morning when incompletely audited reports showed a subscription total of $4,163.71 for the first three days of the seven-day drive.

This announcement that the fund was within striking distance of the half-way mark was received with enthusiasm by chest workers and gave rise to the feeling that nothing can stop the 1929 fund campaign.

Collections on Thursday amounted to $1,371.53 which maintained the good showing of the preceding two days.

Citing the example of the football team that has broken training and indulged in a turkey dinner before the big game of the season, Edwin Galloway, general campaign chairman, warned everyone concerned, however, against becoming lazy with optimism.

"The bald fact of the matter is that workers and public will have to hump themselves to put this campaign over by next Tuesday night, the finish of the drive. To be even more candid—unless there is considerable humping on the part of all concerned the drive may fall short of its mark despite this early good showing.

"If we are to hit this Community Fund out of the quagmire of defeat, it will be necessary for every citizen of Xenia to do his bit by giving to the limit of his ability."

"I am delighted, however, with the results to date. The solicitors have kept at a steady grind which is the necessary feature of a campaign of this type."

It was generally felt that Thursday's large report will hearten everyone and that regardless of the weather during the next few days, indications Friday being that cold weather had come to stay, the chest organization would smash through to a victory that will insure protection for the needy and destitute in Xenia for another year.

This appeal was made by chest supporters to the prospective giver Friday: "Remember the amount you pledge in this campaign is a single subscription covering the expense of the ten co-operating charity and character-building agencies for the entire year of 1930."

"Appreciating this fact, the fund has provided that your subscription need not be paid in a lump sum. You may meet it in regular installments during the year."

"If the people of Xenia will only keep this in mind the chest will be able to reach its goal by next Tuesday night."

WRECKED TRAIN

Lester F. Mead, above, has made a confession to Los Angeles deputy sheriffs to a part in the wrecking of the West Coast Limited, near Saugus, Cal. The train was robbed at the points of guns by men who entered the ditched cars. Mead declares, according to sheriffs, that he received $25 for pulling the spikes from a rail, but that he does not know who employed him for the task.

SENATE WILL RAISE TARIFF ON WOOLENS DESPITE RESULTS

Ignores Threats Of Bad Politics And Blow To Poor

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The senate prepared today to vote tariff increases on manufactured wooleens in the face of dire predictions that a boost would lay a heavy tax on the poor and deal a terrific political blow to the Republican party. Having already raised the tariff on basic raw wool from thirty-one to thirty-four cents, the senate was confronted with proposals by Senator Smoot (R) of Utah, chairman of the finance committee, to increase the tariff on woolen goods all down the line to compensate manufacturers for the higher price of the raw product.

The famous "schedule K" of the Payne-Aldrich and the Fordney-McCumber tariff bills—which once nearly disrupted the Republican party—had been dressed up in new form as mere "schedule 11" of the Hawley-Smoot bill under consideration. The change was made, it is understood, to escape the opprobrium that lingered in the minds of many from the country-wide attacks upon "schedule K."

The senate had before it the forecast of Senator Walsh (D) of Massachusetts that the proposed tariff boosts would not only injure the wool manufacturers by causing poor people to use substitutes and hurt the wool growers by decreasing demand, but that the action would be a factor in the next election.

WOMAN DEAD; MAN IS UNDER ARREST

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 22.—A woman is dead here today and a man is being held for investigation at city prison.

The man, Wayne Blackstone, 30, contends that the dead woman, Mrs. Helen Bailey Harris, 24, shot herself after sending him to get her a glass of water.

Blackstone said, "She threatened to kill us both but I took the revolver away from her Wednesday and placed it in my shoe repair shop for safe keeping but she came for it Thursday and I let her have it."

She shot herself shortly before noon Thursday, but she did not succumb until late last night.

FINISHES HALF ITS PROGRAM FOR FARM RELIEF AND TARIFF

Regular Sessions To Resume December 2, After Week Off

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The "Hoover honeymoon" session of the seventy-first congress, summoned for farm relief and tariff revision, neared its death today with half its program incomplete but leaving behind an ambitious record of legislative achievements.

Congress faced a week's vacation, before meeting in regular session December 2, with a record topped by enactment of a farm relief bill and the appropriation of $151,500,000 to carry the relief program into effect. It departed, however, with the tariff bill still pending in the senate, after its passage in the house, and with several months of active labor in prospect before it can become a law.

This "honeymoon" session had a career quite like the honeymoons of a newspaper comic. It began with every body friends, under clear skies, and ended in wholesale quarreling, under stormy conditions. The senate furnished the battleground and the actors and the adjournment found the Republican party there split into three factions, a newly formed "young guard" vying with the "old guard" and "insurgents" for the congressional spotlight.

The senate also maintained its reputation for investigations, conducting a half dozen in all and featuring a long awaited inquiry into lobbying activities within the halls of congress. The Shearer inquiry, with its plot involving the Geneva disarmament conference, another into a "leak" into Indian affairs and patronage matters rounded out the program.

One of its most important inquiries involved the right of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon to hold a cabinet position while a stockholder in several great corporations. The inquiry died when a majority of the senate judiciary committee declared Mellon was holding office legally. This verdict was accepted by the senate and terminated an issue that had reverberated through congress ever since the start of the Harding administration eight years ago.

The "honeymoon" session's legislative record follows:

Farm relief bill enacted and signed by president.

An appropriation of $151,500,000 provided for farm relief.

A congressional reapportionment and census bill enacted.

Senate ratified the Franco-American debt settlement.

A fund of $4,250,000 appropriated for eradication of the Mediterranean fruit fly.

A fund of $1,000,000 appropriated for farmers and fruit growers in the storm and flood-stricken areas of the South.

A fund of $29,000,000 authorized for inland transportation of mails.

A fund of $3,000,000 appropriated to buy new government lands in Washington.

Although the senate failed to pass the tariff bill, which the house enacted, there were a number of important measures approved by the senate, which the house failed to act upon. Some of these follow:

Senate passed Borah bill, prohibiting unfair practices in marketing perishable agricultural products.

Senate adopted Norris resolution, proposing constitutional amendment to eliminate "lame duck" sessions of congress and change date of inaugurations.

Senate approved army promotion bill.

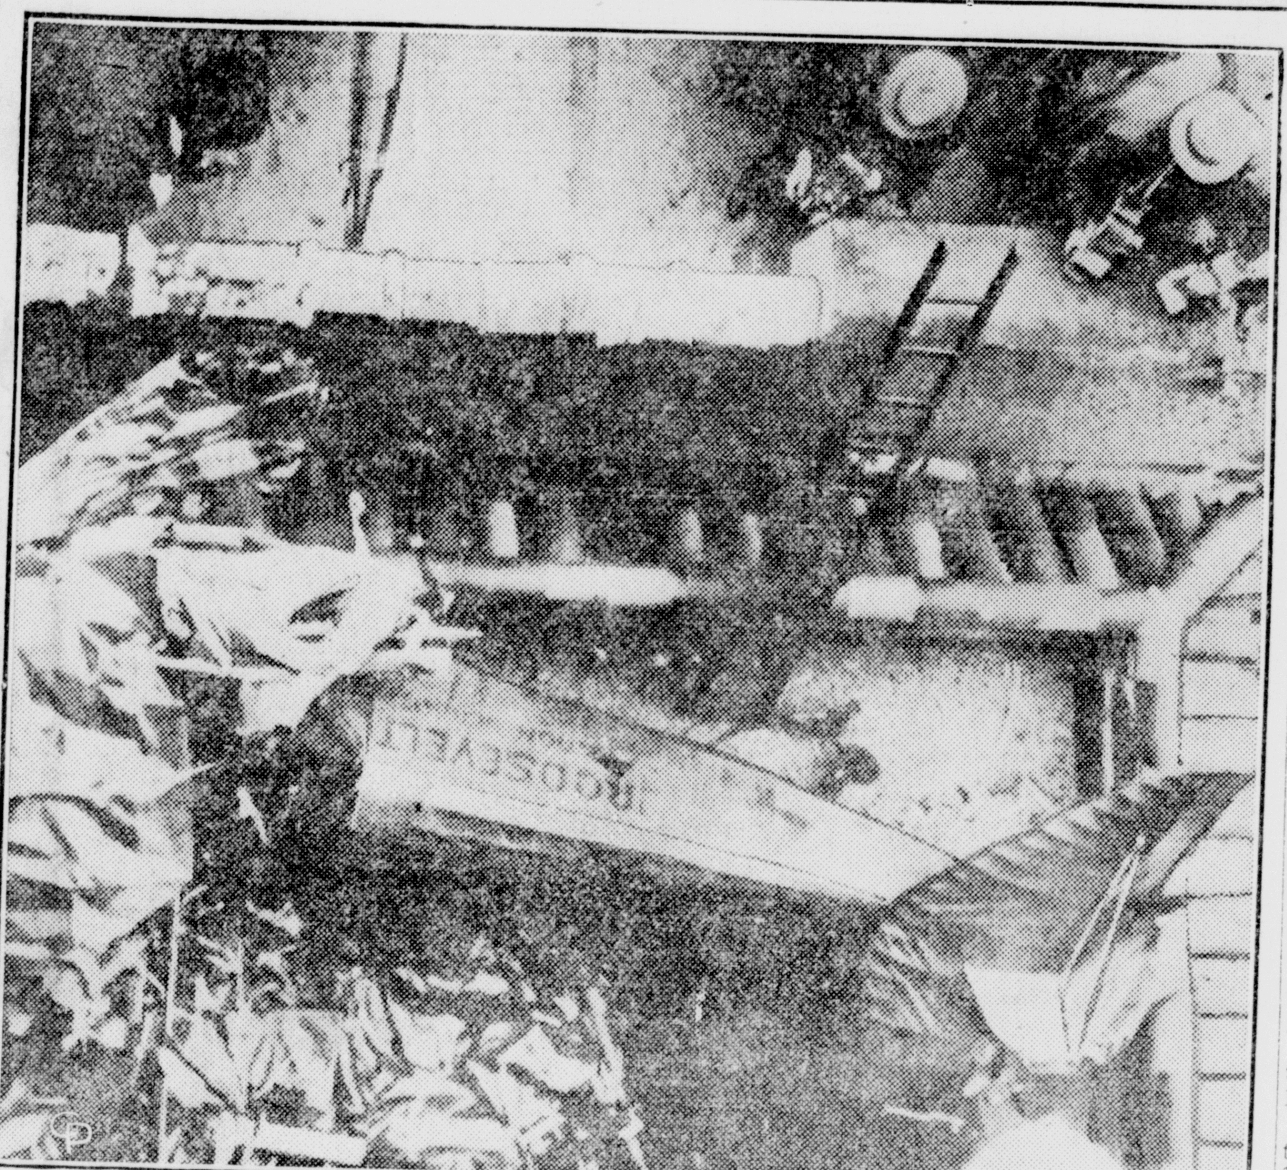

Senate passed bill increasing salaries of capitol employees.

Senate enacted Smoot bill, authorizing new government short term securities.

The senate also confirmed a number of presidential nominations, topped by the appointment of former Vice President Davies as ambassador to Great Britain, and concluding with the appointment of Senator Walter E. Edge as ambassador to France. The new farm board was included in this list.

There were numerous other diversions during the session, such as the defense of high tariffs in the house by Democratic representatives from the South and the rejection of a resolution by the senate condemning a beer bottle attack on Senator J. Thomas Heflin (D) of Ala., at Brookline, Mass. On the social side, there were the visits of Charles L. Lindbergh and Premier Ramsay MacDonald, and the notable occasion in the senate when Mrs. Dollie Gann sat side by side with Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth—right in the midst of yesterday's social war.

WRECKAGE OF PLANE ON ROOF OF BUILDING

Central Press telephoto of the wreckage of a plane piloted by Charles I. Reid, 35, of Manhattan, who crashed into the roof of an apartment building in the heart of New York City after three days while flying over Central Park. Reid was killed instantly. His companion, Robert J. Baile, 24, a lion tamer, escaped by a parachute jump. Photo shows the wreckage of the plane as seen from the roof of an adjoining building.

CLEMENLEAU FACES DEATH; CONDITION REPORTED SERIOUS

Injections Of Camphor Bring Relief To "Tiger" Friday

PARIS, Nov. 22.—Injections of camphor oil administered to former Premier Clemenceau this afternoon relieved his suffering somewhat, it was stated by Dr. Degenne, one of the physicians attending him.

Dr. Degenne issued the following statement when he left M. Clemenceau's home at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon after examining the aged statesman for a half an hour: "The patient is again lucid. He said he was suffering great pain in his stomach but I thought it unwise to continue the morphine injections so I injected camphor oil instead. M. Clemenceau is now resting comfortably."

Three doctors assembled at the eighty-eight year old tiger's home this morning after Clemenceau had spent the night in sleep induced by injections of morphine. He had suffered agonies of pain throughout last evening and the early part of the night, and the injections were given him to allow him the peace of sleep.

WRIST WATCHES FOR COPS EFFEMINATE

JERSEY CITY, Nov. 22.—Jersey City policemen wearing wrist watches ran the danger today of being considered effeminate by their chief, Director of Safety John Beggans.

Beggans' dislike for this type of timepiece came to light yesterday when a patrolman explained his absence from duty by saying he was hunting for his misplaced wrist watch.

"I don't like to see cops wearing wrist watches," the safety director declared. "I wish they would give them back to their sisters."

WIRELESS OPERATOR BESIEGED BY MUTINOUS CREW ASKS HELP

MALTA, Nov. 22.—Four British destroyers were steaming to the aid of an embattled wireless operator on the British steamer Baron Elcho in the Mediterranean Sea today.

Locked in his cabin and threatened with death by a mutinous crew, the operator got in touch with the British wireless station here, informing naval officers of his plight.

The operator said the mutineers had imprisoned the officers of the vessel after drugging them. The wireless operator, escaping the drugging at the mess table, was set upon by the crew but fled to his wireless room and barred the doors and windows.

DREDGE SINKS BUT CREW OF 60 SAVED

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 22.—The U. S. government dredge Manhattan carrying a crew of sixty sank in the Delaware River near Edsmoor a few miles from here early today following a collision with the oil tanker Bessemer of the Atlantic Refining Company, according to reports received here. Members of the crew were rescued.

The government boat said to be valued at several hundred thousand dollars was going upstream bound for Philadelphia when the accident occurred. Full details of the collision were lacking at 10 o'clock this morning. The collision occurred about 2:45 a. m.

FIRST COLD SPELL GRIPS MID-WEST

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—The season's first serious cold snap held the Middle West in its grip today, sending the mercury here skidding down to five above zero.

Relief is predicted from the cold wave which is reported to be moving in a southeasterly direction with a high pressure area that originated in western Canada.

Below zero temperatures were reported from Minnesota, Montana and the Dakotas. The lowest mark was recorded in Minnesota with a temperature of fifteen below zero which was reported late yesterday.

TWO BOUND PRISONERS LEAP TO DEATH FROM SPEEDING TRAIN

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 22.—Scouting reports that two men, answering to the descriptions of L. C. Smith and Albert Copley, escaped Logan County convicts, had been seen near Ripley on the Charleston-Pomeroy Road, state penitentiary and Jackson County authorities concluded today that both prisoners had drowned when they leaped from a Baltimore and Ohio speeding train as it passed over a bridge near Ravenswood.

Smith and Copley were under five-year sentences for grand larceny to a chain, the men were two of the forty-two prisoners who were being taken to the state prison at Moundsville.

When the train neared Ravenswood, both suddenly dived from a coach window, snapping the chain. They plunged thirty-five feet into water thirty feet deep. The Ohio River was swollen at this point and it is believed impossible that two men who are handcuffed together, could swim in the current.

Smith and Copley were under five-year sentences for grand larceny.

HOOVER SATISFIED RESULTS WILL HELP RESTORE BUSINESS

Favorable Factors Support View Of Sound Conditions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—President Hoover and those who have been aiding him in the job of rebuilding national confidence in the immediate business future—a confidence severely shaken by stock exchange gymnastics—viewed the situation with considerable satisfaction today.

The series of business clinics which Mr. Hoover has been conducting with railroad heads, manufacturers, industrialists, merchants, bankers and men of large affairs generally, has resulted in bringing forcibly to public attention an imposing array of favorable factors which support the view that business conditions are basically sound, and that prosperity is still a part of the national picture.

Briefly summarized, these factors, as developed by the White House conferences, are:

1. The great railroad systems of the country are planning to spend $1,000,000,000 during the next year for equipment and in expansion activities.

2. The utilities interests are mapping out an expansion program for next year greater than they carried through this year. An indication of what this means may be gleaned from the fact that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company alone spent some $500,000,000 this year.

3. Henry Ford is going to raise wages in his plants. His experts are now working out the plans for percentage increases in all classes of employment, and the history of such increases has been that industry generally follows an example to higher levels.

4. Steel manufacturers have assured the president their prospects are good for the next year, and that instead of retrenching they are going ahead with plant extensions and replacements.

5. Automobile manufacturers in-

AGED WOMAN KILLED WHEN HIT BY AUTO

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 22.—Miss Mary E. Hane, 69, is dead here today due to injuries which she received when she was struck by an automobile as she alighted from a street car.

The accident which occurred as the woman was enroute to a church wedding snuffed out her life almost instantly.

The driver was released after being questioned.

"Bossy" Leads Ticket

Mayor Andrew Gillis, of Newburyport, won an easy victory in the primaries, polling 2,338 votes, while his nearest opponent, former Mayor Michael Cashman, polled 1,612. "Bossy" is shown leaving the polling booth after he had cast his own vote.

THREE UNHURT WHEN AUTO LEAVES ROAD

POMEROY, O., Nov. 22.—Three boys, on their way to high school in a delapidated college automobile had a narrow escape from serious injury or death today when the machine which was traveling at a high rate of speed, skidded on a snow-covered road and landed upside down on a railroad track at the brink of a thirty-foot wall overlooking the Ohio River. The boys climbed out. None was as much as scratched.

LARGER ZEPPELIN TO BE CONSTRUCTED

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—The construction of a new Zeppelin, the LZ-128, with 50 per cent greater gas capacity than the Graf Zeppelin and larger than England's giant dirigible R-101, will be started within ten days.

A new hangar, built especially to house the new air giant, has now been completed. The new dirigible will cost approximately $2,000,000.

MERCY MURDER AND SUICIDE REPORTED

LONDON, Nov. 22.—What is apparently another "mercy murder" occurred at Falmouth, England today, when Mrs. Harry Jenkins, wife of a well-to-do British contractor, strangled her paralyzed daughter Marjorie, 23, and then committed suicide by inhaling gas.

No other motive has been found for the crime except that Mrs. Jenkins wished to end her daughter's suffering.

PAPER COMPANY STORAGE SHED AT CEDARVILLE RAZED BY FIRE

Loss estimated by officials of the concern at approximately $8,000, fully covered by insurance, was caused when 20,000 bales of dry wheat straw stored in a rick at the plant of The Hagar Straw Board and Paper Co. in Cedarville burned Thursday afternoon.

The plant proper was not endangered and no other buildings were within the area of the blaze, which was soon under complete control.

Employees in the rotary room at the mill discovered the fire at 2:45 p. m. and sounded a general alarm

NOTE SUIT FILED; EXECUTORS NAMED; OTHER COURT NEWS

Asserting that $570 is due from the defendant on a promissory note, which has become lost or destroyed, Nora E. Purtee has brought suit in Common Pleas Court against Fred Woodson for a judgment for that amount. The plaintiff declares she does not have a copy of the note. Foreclosure and sale of mortgaged property is sought and it is also asked that the priority of liens be determined.

EXECUTORS NAMED

W. J. Tarbox has been appointed executor of the estate of Rose Chambers, deceased, with bond of $1,000 in Probate Court. J. E. Hastings, R. S. Townsley and J. M. Auld were named appraisers.

Herman L. Evans and Lawrence E. Evans have been named joint executors of the estate of Frank S. Evans, deceased, without bond. Frank Peterson, W. J. Evans and Ed Evans were appointed appraisers.

D. E. Martin was appointed executor of the estate of William J. Martin, late of Xenia, bond being dispensed with.

O. C. Harner has been named executor of the estate of Jennie Harner, deceased, without bond.

HEARING SET

Application of Mrs. John Gentner and Jacob Stewart to be released as sureties on the bond of Stella Gentner, as administratrix of the estate of Samuel Gentner, deceased, has been assigned for a hearing November 25 in Probate Court.

by blowing the factory whistle and a siren. The private fire department at the plant was pressed in to service and the village apparatus also fought the blaze, keeping three streams of water playing on the huge piles of smoking straw.

The bales of straw were stored in three sections and the blaze, first noticed beneath the shed roof of the rick in the south section nearest the street, is thought to have been caused by spontaneous combustion.

Dense volumes of smoke handicapped the efforts of those combating the blaze. Employees utilized the recently purchased gasoline fire pump at the plant with good results, water being obtained from a large reserve tank, from wells and from Massies Creek, a small stream which runs along the rear of the plant.

Although fully under control, the mass of straw smoldered all night and will continue to do so for several more days, it is expected. It was necessary to play six streams of water on the straw all night and the same procedure was being followed Friday morning. The village fire apparatus went out early Thursday evening but the private equipment of the company carried on efficiently. A number of holes were cut in the roof of the shed in order to better fight the blaze.

Officials of the company announced that the blaze will probably have to burn itself out and meanwhile a careful watch will be kept to make certain other buildings in the vicinity are not endangered.

The baled straw was valued at between $7,000 and $8,000 and the shed was also a total loss. It is expected that about one-third of the straw will be salvaged but it will be thoroughly water soaked and probably worthless if it is pointed out.

HOOVER SATISFIED RESULTS WILL HELP RESTORE BUSINESS

formed Mr. Hoover that while production this year may drop off somewhat from last year's abnormally high figures, they are counting on normal production and normal expansions.

6. The outlook is for easier money conditions, as reflected in lower discount rates and the diversion of an enormous amount of cash heretofore going into stock speculation to the channels of productive business, large construction.

7. Employers and labor heads have both given their word to President Hoover that the wage question will not be agitated during the present emergency—the employers not to cut wages and labor not to demand increases.

The president considers this latter factor a most important one. It was emphasized in the statement to which the president and his score of "big business" callers subscribed at the conclusion of their conference.

"It was considered," said the statement, "that the absorption of capital in loans on the stock market had postponed much construction and that the flow of this capital back to industry and commerce would now assist the new construction."

One of Mr. Hoover's pet theories is that when any country is building houses and factories that country is a prosperous country, for the ramifications of the construction industry extended into every line of business. Hence his particular interest in encouraging construction activity at this time.

The government itself, at his direction, has enormously expanded its own building plans for the next year.

Out of the conferences which the president has held this week and which he will continue next week, has developed, also, a definite policy of close co-operation between ordinary business and commercial agencies and those the government maintains.

The large group that conferred at the White House yesterday, which included such industrial figures as Henry Ford, Owen D. Young, Pierre DuPont, Alfred Sloan, Myron C. Taylor, Julius Rosenwald, Homer Ferguson, Clarence M. Woolley, Eugene G. Grace, and Walter Gifford, was turned in to a temporary advisory committee which will function through the present unsettled period, and until a more or less permanent organization can be effected to counsel the government in the maintenance of prosperous times.

Julius Barnes, chairman of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, and long associated with Mr. Hoover, was given the task of creating an executive committee from this group to work out a definite program for expansion of construction activities and maintenance of employment.

Later Barnes announced the meeting would be held in the capital within two weeks, and will include representatives of all major industries of the country. The conference will choose an executive committee which will co-operate with government agencies "to assist in organizing business to help itself."

Recital Group Pleases Audience In Xenia

In a well planned and extremely artistic program given at the First United Presbyterian Church Thursday night, Mr. Urban Deger, prominent Dayton organist, proved himself indeed a master of his instrument.

Opening with Kinder's "Exultemus," a brilliant composition which displayed to advantage Mr. Deger's clean-cut mode of playing, he won an enthusiastic response from his audience which continued throughout the entire evening. The "Potomac-Park Boat Song" of Shure was particularly delightful, calling into use only the soft stops of the organ chosen with artistic taste.

The second group was comprised of Durand's "In the Forest," expressively interpreted; "Autumn Song" by Gretchenhoff, also beautifully dictated, and the dancing "Will O' the Wisp" of Novina which the audience found especially pleasing.

Miss Charlotte Chambers, a young and talented violinist of Dayton, continued the program with "The Nightingale," by Ovide Musin, displaying highly commendable technique, and real artistry. Miss Chambers was a student of Mr. Musin in New York during the past summer and personal contact with the composer of her opening number was evident in the surety with which she responded to the rather peculiar, but none the less beautiful demand for sympathetic interpretation.

Opening the next group of organ numbers was Kinder's "Toccata in D" intelligently dictated, followed by the ever lovely "Londonderry Air." From Stoughton's "Sea Skaters," Mr. Deger selected "The Streets" and "Naptime" for his next offering, the light gaiety of the former in pleasing contrast to the rather heavy harmony of the latter. Both were exceptionally well played.

Miss Chambers again contributed to the program, playing first the very beautiful "Les Adieux" of Sarasote followed by dashing "Mexicana," of Musin. Both of these numbers will be included in Miss Chambers' repertoire with the famous Arco Band under Mr. Frank Simon this season and are played with exceptional virtuosity.

The stately "Pomp and Circumstance" March by Elgar was Mr. Deger's final offering to his audience and left them breathless as it were, with his dexterity in answering the technical demands of the composition, as well as his keen understanding and ability to bring out its unusual beauty.

Both of Thursday night's soloists are teachers in Dayton. Mr. Deger is located in the Emmanuel School, while Miss Chambers is at the Proctor School of Music.

Miss Marjorie Street, one of Xenia's own talented pianists assisted at the piano with unusual sympathy and efficiency. Miss Street has genuine gift for accompanying and Miss Chambers was highly gratified with her able assistance—V. S.

Stylist Gives Fashion Talk Before Club

MISS Cleo Hurley, Dayton stylist, former Xenian, gave the address at the regular meeting of the Xenia Business and Professional Woman's Club, Thursday evening at the K. of P. Hall.

Miss Hurley, who is stylist for a Dayton newspaper, and several other papers, talked on the styles of today. The stylist, she said, does not create the styles and her duty does not consist in merely telling about or demonstrating the fashions, but is a definite merchandising proposition and follows clear and definite merchandising principles.

"Fashion," said Miss Hurley, "is a style that has been accepted by a considerable number of women. There are styles in everything from skirts and pants to women's clothes. Their adaptability to the needs of the users is the greatest feature in determining styles. The styles that were adapted to the needs of other days and became fashions are not in many instances the styles that answer the needs of today. When the great French dressmaker desired to change the styles from the extremely short dresses to longer dresses they sent models to the races wearing the new long gowns. This, with variations in the lengths of the skirts, they have followed for several years. The style has finally appealed to a large enough number of women so that it is becoming the fashion."

Miss Hurley gave welcomed information as to the much discussed proper skirt length. For street, sports, etc., the skirts should be three or four inches below the knee, she said. For afternoon wear or semi-formal functions the draped effects are good. The extremely long frocks are used for formal evening wear only. The longer skirts demand a higher waist line to prevent the figure from appearing out of proportion. The new silhouette, which is called the "moulded figure," has come into fashion.

She then explained how the stylist must study every fluctuation of the market in fabrics, colors and styles and must be able to forecast from the carefully prepared charts just what style of merchandise should be ordered to meet the popular demand. She said that it is business that is as carefully and as accurately worked out as any other phase of business today. The work of the stylist, which is now only a few years old, opens a new and fascinating line of work to the Thick, wavy hair!

You, too, can have long, soft, abundant hair. It's simply a matter of using this easy method; approved by hair-specialists; endorsed by stars of stage and screen; used by millions who haven't time for the more laborious treatments.

Tonight when you arrange your hair, just put a little Danderine on your brush. Then as you draw the bristles through your hair, see how the scalp is toned and soothed. See how the hair becomes softer, easier to manage; how its natural color is brought out; how it takes on new brilliance and lustre!

Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; helps stop falling hair; keeps hair and scalp healthy; encourages the growth of long, silky, abundant hair. Five million bottles used a year. That proves Danderine's effectiveness!

SNOOK DENIED NEW TRIAL WHEN APPEAL OVERRULED BY COURT

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 22.—Just one week before he is scheduled to die in the electric chair, the Franklin County appellate court today refused to intervene in the case of Dr. James Howard Snook, confessed and convicted slayer of his co-ed sweetheart, Miss Theora K. Hix.

The court of appeals overruled the petition in error, which had been filed with it, and which is, in substance, a request for a new trial.

E. O. Ricketts, chief of the defense counsel for the phillandering ex-college professor, said the legal battle for the life of the now doomed slayer would be carried to the state supreme court "without delay."

He said a motion for a stay of execution of sentence would be filed almost immediately, and he expressed confidence that it would be granted until the case is reviewed by the highest court in the Buckeye state.

In handing down its decision, the court administered a rebuke to County Prosecutor John J. Chester for the alleged "third-degree" methods which he used in obtaining a confession from Snook.

The former professor was questioned continuously for twenty-one hours before he finally broke down and told of one of the most brutal murders in the history of Columbus.

The court of appeals cited: "The third degree methods have no place whatsoever in criminal procedure."

The petition in error asked for a hearing of the case on that ground, but the court of appeals overruled it, declaring that the signature on the confession was in a clear, legible hand and that Dr. Snook apparently had not been under any physical or nervous strain when he signed his confession.

Defense attorneys also charged that the case had been "railroaded" through the common pleas court. The appellate court also disregarded that plea.

Charges that Henry L. Scarlett, presiding judge at the Snook trial, one of the most sordid in the history of American jurisprudence,

ELEMENTS OF GREAT DRAMA INCLUDED AS OLD RIVALS TANGLE

California, Purdue
And Notre Dame To Decide Future

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service
Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—It will be do-or-don't day tomorrow for nearly everybody who is anybody in intercollegiate football and, if they don't start paying off on a lot of national and sectional claims by tonight, it won't be because destiny has mis-cast his character. All of the elements of a great drama are there Notre Dame versus Northwestern, Purdue versus Indiana, California versus Stanford, Yale versus Harvard, Texas Christian versus Baylor. Given a few games like these and a drama simply goes out and blows the top of its volatile head off.

The Purdue boiler-makers, for instance need only to beat the arch-rival, Indiana, and not only will they finish the Big Ten season undefeated but national distinction will be theirs. Notre Dame must take one more hurdle with Northwestern at Evanston and, if it lands in the clear, only the Army stands between it and one of the finest records ever compiled by a football team. California, undefeated on the coast, is playing first, for the conference championship and, second, for national recognition. But, more important still, it is playing Stanford. Everything that has gone before is as nothing when this pair meets.

The Texas Christian-Baylor meeting may mean the difference between the national honors and nothing at all, for the former, Nobody has beaten the Christians and Baylor hardly looks the part. But football is a whimsical pastime. Southern Methodist, which ultimately must contest the issue in the Southwest with the Christians, also will be employed during the afternoon and should survive the rice affair, strictly as is and as was.

Then the two trail-blazers of the Big Six, Nebraska and Kansas Aggies, are to bring matters down to a decision at Manhattan and, containing being what they are, this pair must settle about everything there is to be settled out that way. Incidentally, the day of settlement seems to have arrived for Detroit and Fordham, a couple of unbeaten contenders. Detroit plays Oregon Aggies, the team that came on to make a clump out of N. Y. U. last year, and the Aggies can be beaten, then Detroit's status from a national standpoint will be pretty definitely settled. The Aggies may not be such a much this year but only Stanford was able to make a real maul out of them on the coast, Fordham plays Bucknell, one of the best in the east today, and it will have to be a good team if it wins this one.

In fact, only the inaction of Pittsburgh, Tennessee, Tulane and Utah, of the national contenders, prevents the day from going down in the books as the biggest of the year.

Notre Dame either will be the great team it has been since early October or it will suffer a natural reaction from the Southern California victory. Either way, it picks up a live one in Northwestern. In spite of the latter's defeat last Saturday by Indiana. This circumstance, by the way, makes the Purdue affair all the hotter. The latter can't be beaten for the title anyhow, but that is an insignificant factor in the issue. Purdue, finishing its greatest season, gladly would sacrifice every honor to a victory over Indiana.

The affair will be the big number of the conference's closing day, others featuring Michigan against Iowa, Minnesota against Wisconsin and Ohio State against Illinois. Mr. Stagg's Chicago team also has chosen lots of action for itself in taking on the newly-inspired Washington huskies at Chicago.

BOWLING

Bullocks made the race in the Recreation Bowling League a four-cornered affair by winning two out of three games from the champion Greene County Lumber Co. Thursday night. Shuey led the winners with a 576 series and Dice topped the losers with 536. D. Jordan rolled one game with the Buicks, the last, and recorded a 251 score.

In a City League match the same evening the league-leading Downton Country Club won three straight games from the Hooven and Allison Co. quintet. Downton had a three-game total of 566 for the winners and Murrell led the H. and A. with 474. Box scores:

JAMESTOWN HIGH H OPENS COURT SEASON; DEDICATES NEW GYM

Jamestown High School, which has been without a home basketball court for a number of years, will dedicate a new gymnasium in a double-header with the boys' and girls' basketball teams of Spring Valley High Friday night, marking the inaugural home games of the season.

The new playing floor is on the second floor of the Weimer building, which has been leased by the high school.

The girls' contest will be played as a preliminary to the boys' game. Due to the fact the new gym was not completed until recently, the Jamestown teams have engaged in Bellbrook, Bowersville, Plattsburg, Caesars Creek, Sedalia and Cedarville.

The present basketball schedule of Jamestown calls for eleven games, including seven at home, with two dates still open. Among other teams to be played are Bellbrook, Bowersville, Plattsburg, Caesars Creek, Sedalia and Cedarville.

ROGERS HORNSBY, THE TRAVELING BALL PLAYER, REPORTED HEADED FOR REDS

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Can it be that it is somebody else's turn to have all of that rudimentary fun in supporting Rogers Hornsby in the style to which he courageously has accustomed himself on a $40,000 a year basis? Personally, I doubt it can be. The National League is bound to run out of $40,000 welcomes before Mr. Hornsby runs out of years to his contract. However, some of the boys seem to be writing him off as the second baseman of the 1930 Cubs and, with their wonted generosity, are trading him to the Cincinnati Reds for Hughie Critz "and others," the latter being added by way of establishing credibility.

And, considering what has happened to the gentleman during the last four years who are we to doubt this version? Let he who is without sense among you cast the first doubt.

Anyhow, Chicago had to have Hornsby last season and it got him. Maybe the club still wants him, for $40,000 is only the change out of a dollar to Wrigley and besides the man does strike that baseball with considerable frequency and force. But he is being chided rather bitterly by some critics for his display in the last world series and that sort of thing sometimes leads up to something drastic. In any case, they are crusading for youth and dash and flaming ambition out in Chicago and Mr. Hornsby neither is a combination of these virtues nor any of them.

Just why the Reds were nominated in this emergency I wouldn't care to say, unless it happens that they have nominated themselves. They have changed ownership since the close of the season and it takes a new owner some little time before he discovers how slow the sum of $40,000 is counted in baseball. However, it is understood that the Reds figure they must have hitting this time at any cost, and if they are of a mind to acquire Mr. Hornsby, he can be relied upon to give them plenty of both—namely, (a) hitting; (b) cost.

FIRM FOUNDATION

SUBJECT OF SPEECH BEFORE MEN'S CLUB

DR. W. R. MCCHESNEY

"The Firm Foundation" was the subject of the address of Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College, to the men of the First Presbyterian Church, Thursday evening at an oyster supper meeting at the church.

Dr. McChesney said: "I wish to take as my topic this evening, 'The Firm Foundation'—the things which will secure the nation's future and secure this age. Christ two thousand years ago said that men should build their houses on rock—the rock foundation of true principles. You can not build an imposing superstructure on an insecure foundation.

"Our Colonial fathers built well into the foundations of America. Their care is our work. We must look after foundations of houses sometimes and foundation of national prosperity, if we are to withstand the tides without and the enemies within. Dangers and perils of America are not from without—they are from within. Let us consider the elements of 'the firm foundation.' If these parts are kept intact, the American republic will stand.

"First, the safety of the foundations of America is based on 'integrity'; second, the firm foundation is to be built on 'industry', personal energy and national industrial prosperity, that every man may find useful employment, third, 'loyalty'—loyalty to the principles which characterize our national consciousness; fourth, the great principles of liberty and freedom and finally 'faith'—faith in God."

Dr. McChesney quoted Roger Babson in a recent letter to Cedarville College in which he commended Cedarville and also said that the future of America is not "gold" but God. "The difference of one little letter would determine the nature of the development.

In closing the speaker appealed to all to maintain the high place of the forefathers in preserving America on "The Firm Foundation."

There were seventy-eight men present for the meeting. Dr. Paul D. Espey, chairman of the executive committee, presided at the meeting and introduced the speaker.

MRS. SMITH FIRES THE FURNACE

without leaving her chair!

During the coldest Winter weather, the Smith home, out in the edge of this city, is as warm and cozy as any place you can imagine... and it isn't because of a hundred-and-one trips to the basement to coax a lazy furnace.

Mrs. Smith "fires" the furnace without even opening the door to the basement stairs—perhaps between chapters of an interesting book, or while planning the evening meal, she stops a few seconds to set the automatic control on the wall to a figure representing the temperature she desires.

And down in the basement the gas-fired furnace answers the call—unfailingly and immediately.

The Church Invites You

PRAISE VERSUS PRAYER
Praise is more difficult than prayer. Possibly all ten of the lepers healed by Christ prayed, but only one returned to praise the Lord. We hold a kind of contempt for the nine who were healed and would not do so much as thank their healer.

We forget that there are corresponding kindnesses of God extended to us daily, the many ministrations of health and healing, the conditions which provide moral and religious liberty and life with its accompanying blessings of peace, prosperity and happiness.

As every good and perfect gift comes from God, praise belongs to him and where can our thanksgiving be better expressed than in the public service of worship which has in it much of praise. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?—D. Carl Yoder.

Questions he asked; he was a good pupil, quick to learn and understand truth.

V. 48. "And when they saw him, they were astonished; and his mother said unto him, Son, why hast thou thus dealt with us? Behold, thy father and I sought thee sorrowing." It is a mother's love that speaks first; evidently she failed to understand her son; the need for parents is to know their children better.

V. 49. "And he said unto them, How is it that ye sought me? Knew ye not that I must be about my Father's house?" Jesus gave a fundamental principle on which a developing life should be built. Right relations with God put into practice are of first importance.

V. 51. "And he went down with them, and came to Nazareth; and he was subject unto them; and his mother kept all these sayings in her heart." True obedience does not interfere with the highest form of home life; it makes the ideal home possible.

V. 41. "And his parents went every year to Jerusalem at the feast of the Passover." It was not incumbent for the mother to attend these feasts but Mary was an unusually good mother and would make the most of the religious life.

V. 42. "And when he was twelve years old, they went up after the custom of the feast." Twelve years of age is a natural turning point physically, mentally and religiously in the life of a child; if the home life has been correct, the turning point will be toward God.

Vs. 43, 44. "And when they had fulfilled the days as they were returning, the boy Jesus tarried behind in Jerusalem, and his parents knew it not. But supposing him to be in the company, they went a day's journey; and they sought for him among their kinsfolk and acquaintance." Joseph and Mary had implicit trust in the boy Jesus and did not worry about him until he was missed from the company.

Vs. 45, 46. "And when they found him, not returned to Jerusalem, seeking for him, and it came to pass after three days they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the teachers both hearing them and asking them questions." The parents went back to the place where they lost their Jesus. All men need to go back to the place where they lost their Christ.

V. 47. "And all they that heard him were amazed at his understanding and his answers." Jesus showed his power in the kind of

How should we spend Thanksgiving Day?
Spend it joyously. Nehemiah said "The day is holy to the Lord your God; mourn not, neither be ye sorry, for the joy of the Lord is your strength."

Spend it religiously. Read such a psalm as the 133rd or a psalm of confidence as the 91st or comforting words such as found in John 14.

Spend it helpfully. Especially try to serve everyone you touch during the day. Make your household happier for your being in it. Be of assistance to the poor or lonely and seek to make someone's day brighter.

A THANKSGIVING LEGEND
King Richard Coeur de Lion frequently repeated this legend to his comrades to instill in them the spirit of gratitude.

There was once a pit dug to entrap wild beasts and while a rich Venetian was walking through the forest, he fell into it. He found at the bottom a lion and a serpent. Seeing a companion in misery, the beasts did no harm to the Venetian.

Eventually a poor woodcutter heard their cries and discovered them in the pit. The rich Venetian offered rich rewards to the woodcutter if he would assist him in getting out of the pit. The lion and the serpent crawled up the ladder first and crunched hungrily at the feet of the woodcutter, but the rich Venetian went on his way without so much as a word of gratitude.

Later the serpent brought to the woodcutter's hut a precious jewel and the lion brought a dead goat as a token of gratitude. And when the townspeople heard of the gratitude of the beasts and the thoughtlessness of the Venetian, they compelled him to fulfill his promise to the poor woodcutter even to the half of his kingdom.

THE CRIME OF FORGETFULNESS
There is no greater crime committed by any one of us than that of forgetfulness. The common mercies of life we take for granted because we receive them with such marvelous regularity and the hand of the Giver is invisible.

Our petitions for favors are likely to greatly outnumber our thanks for blessings received. There is an old legend which tells of two angels.

PROFESSOR SPEAKS ON SCANDINAVIAN LITERATURE HERE

Dr. John O. Evjen, professor at Wittenberg College, Springfield, addressed members of the Friends of Books Club at the Greene County Public Library Thursday evening, on the subject of "Modern Scandinavian Writers."

Dr. Evjen spoke first of Sigrid Undset's writings and rated Kristin Lavransdatter as one of the greatest of medieval novels. "This trilogy is finer than the series which follow, of which The Axe and Snake are the first two," he said. "However," he added, the latter are perhaps more gripping. Miss Undset's strength rests in her delineation of love and religion according to Dr. Evjen.

The work of Bjørn was discussed at less length. This author's best work, the speaker said, was "The Great Hunger." He likened "The Prisoner Who Sang" to Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Knut Hamsun, whose name is assumed, he said has not the finish of the first two writers. It was of interest to his audience to learn that Hamsun was at one time a street car conductor in America.

Selma Lagerlof, another winner of the Nobel prize, depicts an ideal side of Swedish life said Dr. Evjen. Her best books are the story of "Gosta Berling" and "Jerusalem." The material for the latter was secured during the author's sojourn in Palestine.

Coming down through a number of Norwegian writers the speaker came to Rolvag's "Giants of the Earth." This, Dr. Evjen said, he considered the greatest of modern Scandinavian novels. His own life in Wisconsin for a number of years, he told his audience, showed him how truly the author knew the people he wrote about.

NEURITIS IS BANISHED BY NEW KONJOLA

Grateful Lady Tells How Modern Medicine Relieved Her Of Intense Suffering

"I had been a victim of dreadful neuritis for some time," said Mrs. Cora Sebald, 268 South Davis Ave., Columbus, Ohio. "The pains settled mostly in my shoulders and arms. My joints were stiff and sore, and they swelled terribly. My hands and fingers cramped so that it was impossible for me to hold anything in them. I was practically helpless and terribly discouraged over my inability to find relief.

"But it did not take long for Konjola to change my entire outlook on life. The pains and swelling gradually lessened and before long every single trace of neuritis disappeared. What a relief to drop this burden of suffering after years of torture. I could hardly believe that it was possible for one medicine to do so much but it is a fact. Konjola proved to me that it is a wonderful medicine. I cannot praise it too highly."

Konjola is a new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. Konjola works quickly and thoroughly at the very root, the fount of the ill of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief, but to bring new, glorious and lasting health.

Konjola is sold in Xenia at Gallaher drug store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section.

CHANGE NOON HOUR FOR PUPILS

APPROXIMATELY 2,000 pupils in the Xenia public schools hailed with delight an announcement made by Louis Hammerie, city school superintendent, that starting next Monday and continuing throughout the remainder of the school year, the noon hour will be lengthened by fifteen minutes.

Because the noon meal of a large number of parents of school children is determined by the fact Xenia industrial plants close in the morning at 11:30 o'clock, school authorities have decided that pupils shall hereafter also be dismissed at 11:30 a. m. instead of 11:45 o'clock as has previously been the case.

Classes will convene for the afternoon session at the same time as before in order not to interfere with the schedule of those pupils who ordinarily have their noon meal at 12 o'clock.

Each morning class period will be shortened slightly in order to make up the fifteen minutes deducted, it is announced.

DISTRICT OFFICER

MISS ALICE GORDON, daughter of Clarence Gordon, 548 Cincinnati Ave., was elected secretary of the seventh district, Luther League of the Ohio Synod, for the coming year at the annual southern conference held in Urbana recently.

This is a young people's society of the Lutheran Church and Miss Gordon, who is a senior at Xenia Central High School, attended the conference as a delegate from the First Lutheran Church, Xenia. There were 120 registered delegates from southwestern Ohio in attendance.

SCHOOL EXCEEDS CHEST QUOTA

PUPILS of St. Brigid parochial school subscribed more than 50 per cent over their quota for the Xenia Community Chest in a one-day solicitation, according to a report to campaign headquarters by the Rev. David Powers, pastor and head of the school Friday.

Based on the assignment of maximum subscriptions for school children of various ages made in the junior community chest organization, the parochial school quota was $7.50. The total subscription there, however, resulted in $11.52 being collected for the chest.

The Rev. Father Powers announced Wednesday that a one-day canvass would be made among the children Thursday and by Thursday noon the solicitation was completed. The results showed that every room subscribed 100 per cent to the fund. The largest individual donation was the maximum of ten cents each assigned to high school pupils, the fixed amounts of the junior chest being adhered to.

AUDITOR CRESWELL NAMED ON TAXATION BODIES BY COOPER

P. H. CRESWELL

Paul H. Creswell, Greene County auditor, has been designated by Governor Myers Y. Cooper as a member of one of two committees appointed to study existing taxation laws.

The governor's committee includes a few opponents of the constitutional amendment adopted at the recent November election. Auditor Creswell, who opposed adoption of the amendment, was one of only two county auditors named to the committee, the other being John A. Zangerle, auditor of Cuyahoga County, who favored the amendment.

A similar committee was designated a few days ago by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce and on November 26 the All-Ohio Tax League is scheduled to meet to determine whether a third committee shall be named, as indicated recently.

The membership of the two committees is not identical but is overlapping, the governor's committee being the larger.

It is pointed out that the governor's committee may be subdivided in perhaps as many as twelve different groups to study various phases of the taxation subject, each group having a chairman and the chairmen of the various groups forming the executive committee.

Findings of the governor's committee will be reported at the convening of the state legislature in 1931, the belief being that the general assembly will welcome any carefully considered information such as will aid in formulating a constructive legislative program looking to an equitable tax law in which all the citizens have a vital interest.

Members of the committee, which is bi-partisan and generally representative, are, by experience, familiar with taxation matters. It is declared.

John Van Antwerp MacMurray, United States Minister to China since 1925, has resigned his position. Mr. MacMurray has accepted a responsible position at Johns Hopkins University.

Poems that Live

"TIS THE LAST ROSE OF SUMMER"

TIS the last rose of summer,
Left blooming alone;
All her lovely companions
Are faded and gone;
No flower of her kindred,
No rose-bud is nigh,
To reflect back her blushes,
Or give sigh for sigh.

I'll not leave thee, thou lone one!
To pine on the stem;
Since the lovely are sleeping,
Go, sleep thou with them.
Thus kindly I scatter
Thy leaves o'er the bed
Where thy mates of the garden
Lie scentless and dead

So soon may I follow
When friendships decay,
And from Love's shining circle
The gems drop away.
When true hearts lie withered,
And fond ones are flown,
O who would inhabit
This bleak world alone?

COLLEENS WILL BE ENTERTAINMENT ON PROGRAM AT BEAVER

Headed by Tess Sheehan, the Killarney Colleens will entertain on the Beaver Grange Lyceum entertainment course, Wednesday evening, November 27. Irish stories and dramatic numbers will be featured.

Theresa Sheehan, the featured artist, has the true Irish appreciation of wholesome fun, and is blessed with a contagious laugh that will be associated with her name long after the drop of the curtain. Somehow or other folks just naturally like Tess Sheehan for her outstanding good nature. They laugh with her, they thrill with her, and their fancy romps with her creative moods. The New York Mirror hit the nail on the head when it remarked that "Miss Sheehan's work is that of an artist because it is done without affectation."

During her career as an entertainer, Miss Sheehan has appeared in every state and province in the United States and Canada. She is famous for her Irish stories, such as "Hooly's Wan Chick," "The Man Who Planted the Hungry Grass," "Danny," and such Tom Daly poems as "Katy's Graduation Day." She also gives interesting cuttings from "The White-Headed Boy," Dr. Frank R. Optic's philosophy, and a great variety of character impersonations and imitations.

Appearing with Miss Sheehan is Miss Mae Saltmarsh, trombonist, who has been a popular entertainer with the Redpath Bureau for several seasons.

The Theater

Convinced that sound pictures are firmly entrenched in the hearts of audiences, film producers have thrown caution to the winds and are launching extensive production programs, with an eye also to the foreign markets.

One leading eastern producing company is reported to be making twelve films in the Spanish language, presumably for South American consumption, while it also has in production, talkies in French, German, Russian, Italian, Portuguese, Swedish, Finnish and Czechoslovakian.

In order to make these foreign language plays, the producers have begun to tap the vast reservoir of foreign theatrical talent in New York's many foreign theaters, with the result that some of the foreign stars of the regular picture field were left high and dry because of voice weaknesses.

Among the established film actors in Hollywood there are about 200 foreign born, representing thirty-two nations, besides several thousand foreigners who occasionally are assigned extra parts and get part of their livelihood from the films.

The plunge into foreign markets has saved these actors for the films at a time when they feared the talkies would eliminate them. Indications are that there will continue to be a steadily increasing demand for actors who speak a foreign language, if America continues to dominate the film market of the world as in the past.

Indicative of the change in sentiment about the talkies is the fact that youngsters who used to be the booking offices of legitimate theaters now storm the film offices, realizing that the film is now the front door to the stage and not a secondary or incidental possibility. Teachers of foreign languages report an increase of students from those who have film aspirations.

America must work fast to retain its film superiority as England has just finished thirty-four talkies and expansion programs are in evidence. France has 12,000 actors out of work and there is a move toward home production apparent there. Cosmopolitan New York has given Americans an edge by permitting them to find talent to use in foreign-language films.

The new First U. P. Church building is progressing nicely. The furnaces are in and the heat turned on, when needed. A wind storm which came nearer reaching the proportions of a cyclone than any other storm that has struck this community in a number of years, occurred Monday night, causing property damage amounting to several thousand dollars.

With $6,000 already pledged, a good start has been made toward raising the $17,500 needed to make available the gift of Andrew Carnegie for the same amount for erection of a $35,000 dormitory for girl students on the grounds of Wilberforce University.

COTTON STOCKINGS

ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY

Author of "THE FLAT TIRE"

Copyright, 1929, by Central Press Association, Inc.

READ THIS FIRST:

Rosalie March, seventeen, secures a position at the hosiery counter of a store through the kindness of Keneasa Du Barry, actress. She is adored by her landlady, Mother Murphy, and little Tim O'Hara, the corner newsie. Rosalie discovers a run in her only pair of silk stockings. She wears an old cotton pair to the store, much to the amusement of the salesgirls. In desperation, she decides to take a silk pair from stock and make good for them pay day. She drops them and is observed by Alberto Martino, the store detective, who threatens to arrest her unless she agrees to hide some suitcases in her room for him. Rosalie is frightened and agrees. In the meantime Roy Clarke Andrews, nephew of the owner of the store, falls in love with Rosalie and asks her to marry him. Rosalie is called to the phone. Rosalie and Roy are tricked to a flying field, where Roy is kidnapped.

Rosalie is released by the gang after being cautioned to say nothing. She finally gets on a street car.

Rosalie is afraid to say anything about Roy's disappearance. Ann Shultz, salesgirl, questions her. Martino is in the plot, and calls to see Rosalie, threatening her to keep still.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIX

Rosalie got up slowly, a wave of fury and hatred pouring over her until she could hardly breathe.

"You killed him! You dirty rat!" She was surprised that it was her voice that was rasped. Tim's favorite epithet out at him. He grabbed her arm and shook her roughly.

"Shut yer trap—you little fool!" She had lost complete control of herself.

"I won't! I won't! I'm going to tell I want to die."

Martino held an arm around her and put a dirty hand over her mouth.

"You'll get your wish, damn you, if you let another sound out of you."

She sunk down on the bed then and he released her. When she could speak she asked him wretchedly:

"Why did you come here again? Haven't you done just about everything you can?"

"I come to make sure this big shoutin' in the evening papers didn't scare you into actin' like a nut and givin' me away."

"Then," Rosalie stormed at him, unafraid again, "what would you do if I did tell everything I know?"

"Gawd," he laughed at her, impatiently, "ain't we made it clear enough?"

"But—suppose I don't care. I— I've nothing to live for now."

Martino looked surprised.

"What'da you mean you ain't got nothin' to live for? Ain't you got as much as you had before?"

"I— I loved Roy Andrews," she sobbed out then. "We were going to be married."

He sat back and stared at her in astonishment.

"Apple sauce! Not that bird with all that money—"

In a moment he laughed again.

"I don't blame you for havin' the weeps. That's a lot of jack to let slip through your fingers, kid—"

She screamed at him, childishly defending her love:

"What do I care about his old money? It was Roy I loved."

Martino did some fast thinking. If she cared for the boy like that some day she was almost certain to give it away. Then what? He would never be safe. His new racket was such a good one that he couldn't bear the thought of it slipping through his fingers.

He would certainly have to find some way to save things over. Any girl would do anything for enough money.

Anybody's silence could be bought if the price was high enough. She was crying bitterly when he sat down on the bed beside her and tried to lift her head from her arms.

"Don't touch me! Get away from me!"

He tried his benevolent expression on her again.

"Ah, gee, sister, I didn't know you was in love with the kid. I thought it was just a little fun. That's tough. How'd you like to go away on a nice long trip?"

She raised her head, her lip curling.

"I suppose with some of your nice friends along to see that I didn't open my mouth."

He shook his head, hurriedly.

"No, not at all. Just by yourself. I'll give you ten thousand bucks if you want to go over and live in Paree or some nice place and you won't have to work in the store—or do another turn."

He was trying to buy her off. It didn't sound possible. He was trying to buy HER silence. When she did not answer him for disgust he thought she was thinking it over.

"A swell dame like you shouldn't work any more. I always says to Spry and the boys it's a shame to see them pretty little hands and dimples where they ain't gettin' you nowhere. If you dolled up in a lot of swell rags and went over to Paree you'd knock 'em dead—"

Her brain began to function a little more clearly. Maybe—if she made him think she might take up his proposition he might let her know exactly what they had done with Roy. If he had been killed, where they had buried him.

He saw that she was getting ready to speak and waited. Rosalie controlled her tears.

"If I did go away—somewhere where I'd never see anyone who knew me would you tell me what has happened to Roy?"

"Sure," Martino said it a little too quickly.

She knew he was lying. She could never trust him. With a despondent gesture she waved the idea aside.

"I couldn't trust you anyway—"

That seemed to anger him.

"You couldn't, eh? Well, I ain't done you no harm yet, have I? Didn't I promise to not harm a hair of your head if you kept your trap shut after you stole the stockings?"

He got up and sat in the rickety chair, his anger and fear mounting.

"You don't trust me, eh? Think I'd lie to you?"

That seemed to anger him.

"You couldn't, eh? Well, I ain't done you no harm yet, have I? Didn't I promise to not harm a hair of your head if you kept your trap shut after you stole the stockings?"

He got up and sat in the rickety chair, his anger and fear mounting.

"You don't trust me, eh? Think I'd lie to you?"

That seemed to anger him.

He got up and sat in the rickety chair, his anger and fear mounting.

It was Rosalie who laughed this time, wildly.

"Oh, no, I'd trust you anywhere. You wouldn't harm a hair of anybody's head. You haven't done a thing to me—not a thing. I'll take your ten thousand dollars and go away and be perfectly happy—"

Martino was scared when she looked at him and kept on laughing. A Jane that would throw hysterics like that would do almost anything crazy. She couldn't possibly keep her trap shut. Maybe she'd go crazy and tell on him and he'd get caught.

He leaned over and hissed at her threateningly:

"Shut yer trap or I'll bump you off right now."

The little gun under the pillow! She had moved her hand and touched it. A wave of blessed relief poured through her. Tim's little gun. She could kill him with it.

Martino was so floored when he found himself looking into it that he stepped back almost to the door. Then he was sure it wasn't loaded. With a vile oath he leaped forward. His intentions were to choke her to death and get away by the fire escape.

But as he lunged for her a shot rang out.

Martino dropped like a lump of lead at her feet.

She did not hear the pounding on the door—or mother's voice crying to her frantically. She had fallen in a dead faint beside him.

"MY little son, George, became bilious, pale, and listless," says Mrs. G. C. Kohl, 1155 Oxford Road, Cleveland, Ohio. "He was never hungry and didn't digest what he ate. He was constipated."

"I decided to try California Fig Syrup; and it has been a blessing. Now his bowels are regular; he has a fine appetite and perfect digestion. I give him a little Fig Syrup, now and then, when he seems to need its help, and it keeps him gaining."

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

THE RICH, FRUITY LAXATIVE AND TONIC FOR CHILDREN

Giving children California Fig Syrup is the finest way to do away with the ills caused by constipation. This is the way children like; that doctors approve. This pure vegetable product just suits a child's system. It moves the bowels gently without griping or discomfort. It helps tone and strengthen bowels and stomach so they continue to act naturally. A child's whole system soon reacts to its purifying and energizing qualities. Prove it the next time your child develops those first symptoms of a clogged system—bad breath or coated tongue.

Emphasize the name California in buying, to avoid imitations.

RUSH SUPPLIES FOR VICTIMS OF TIDAL WAVE; 26 ARE DEAD

Many Homeless After Disaster; Need Fuel And Food

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 22.—(Continued from page 1.)—Hearing food and medicinal supplies, government vessels were steaming at full speed for the south coast of Newfoundland today to bring aid to thousands left helpless by a gigantic tidal wave which killed twenty-six persons and destroyed miles of waterfront property.

As soon as word was received of the disaster the government steamer Melgie was dispatched to the Burin peninsula, which bore the full brunt of the tidal wave. Other steamers in the vicinity are rushing to the scene.

Wireless communication with Burin was re-established early today for the first time since the earthquake shock and the subsequent tidal wave. Operator Cox of the Burin station sent a graphic account of the tidal wave to International News Service here.

"Eight deaths occurred in Point Au Gaul, seven in Port Au Bras, four at Taylor's Cove, four at Lord's Cove, two at Kelly's Cove and one at Allan's Island," Cox's radio read.

"Allan's Island was swept of all its fishing stores and stores, while Point Au Gaul lost all its fishing property, provisions and coal supplies. In addition, three houses and seventy other buildings were destroyed at the latter place.

"Fifteen families are homeless at Taylor's Cove.

"St. Lawrence and Corbin were swept clean of waterfront property and fishing boats, while Lancelau lost one house and all its fishing gear. Great Burin and Kelly's Cove were stripped of waterfront premises and at Port Au Bras, eleven houses, fourteen schooners and all d-rises and skiffs, as well as waterfront provisions, were carried away or destroyed.

"The post office at St. Lawrence is swinging at anchor in the middle of the harbor. Nothing is left of the Lord's Cove telegraph office.

"Not since the year before the outbreak of the American Civil War when 300 lives were lost on the same coast by a tidal wave, has the country faced such privation and distress from lack of fuel and food."

Reports from the stricken district indicate that many survivors of the disaster are suffering keenly from exposure and shock. The fact that the tidal wave swept in after dark added to the horror and distress, the populace being rendered panic-stricken as the rushing wall of water tore down buildings and homes as if they were match-wood.

Check-up of the property damage as yet is impossible, but it is apparent the disaster completely paralyzed the winter fishery, upon which the people of the Burin peninsula depend for the necessities of life.

CHEST DRIVE NEARS HALF-WAY MARK IS REPORT FOR FRIDAY

Workers Show $4,163.71 Collected In First Three Days

Hope for the success of the second annual Xenia Community Fund campaign bubbled over at chest headquarters Friday morning when incompletely audited reports showed a subscription total of $4,163.71 for the first three days of the seven-day drive.

This announcement that the fund was within striking distance of the half-way mark was received with enthusiasm by chest workers and gave rise to the feeling that nothing can stop the 1929 fund campaign.

Collections on Thursday amounted to $1,371.53 which maintained the good showing of the preceding two days.

Citing the example of the football team that has broken training and indulged in a turkey dinner before the big game of the season, Edwin Galloway, general campaign chairman, warned everyone concerned, however, against becoming loggy with optimism.

"The bald fact of the matter is that workers and public will have to hump themselves to put this campaign over by next Tuesday night, the finish of the drive. To be even more candid—unless there is considerable humping on the part of all concerned the drive may fall short of its mark despite this early good showing.

"If we are to hit this Community Fund out of the quagmire of defeat, it will be necessary for every citizen of Xenia to do his bit by giving to the limit of his ability.

"I am delighted, however, with the results to date. The solicitors have kept at a steady grind which is the necessary feature of a campaign of this type."

It was generally felt that Thursday's large report will hearten everyone and that regardless of the weather during the next few days, indications Friday being that cold weather had come to stay, the chest organization would smash through to a victory that will insure protection for the needy and destitute in Xenia for another year.

This appeal was made by chest supporters to the prospective Friday: "Remember the amount you pledge in this campaign is a single subscription covering the expense of the ten co-operating charity and character-building agencies for the entire year of 1930.

"Appreciating this fact, the fund has provided that your subscription need not be paid in a lump sum. You may meet it in regular installments during the year.

"If the people of Xenia will only keep this in mind the chest will be able to reach its goal by next Tuesday night."

TRIED SECOND TIME ON MURDER CHARGE

PORTSMOUTH, O., Nov. 22.—With his life at stake again, Joseph Locke, aged 50, a man of many marriages, who allegedly shot and killed the mother of his seventh child, will go on trial on first-degree murder charges here December 19, it was announced today.

Locke was convicted by a jury in Common Pleas Court here on June 5 on a charge of slaying Mrs. Mary Galloway, the mother of his 17-year-old wife, Lucy. The young girl was his seventh bride. He was sentenced to die in the electric chair at the Ohio State Penitentiary.

The Supreme Court saved him, however, and ordered a second trial, because his "girl-bride" had testified against him at his first trial.

The jury at the first trial disregarded the man's plea of transitory insanity, which was based upon his assertion that a man is not entirely sane when he is in love."

HONESTY WINS

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Keenly sought coupled with honesty today had won $5,000 for Frank De Luca, taxi driver. Noticing a shining object in the gutter as he cruised alone, De Luca stopped and picked up a $50,000 strand of pearls. A grateful owner today was to name De Luca the reward.

WRECKED TRAIN

Lester F. Mead, above, has made a confusion to Los Angeles deputy sheriffs to a part in the wrecking of the West Coast Limited, near Saugus, Cal. The train was robbed at the points of guns by men who entered the ditched cars. Mead declares, according to sheriffs, that he received $25 for pulling the spikes from a rail, but that he does not know who employed him for the task.

SENATE WILL RAISE TARIFF ON WOOLENS DESPITE RESULTS

Ignores Threats Of Bad Politics And Blow To Poor

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The senate prepared today to vote tariff increases on manufactured woollens in the face of dire predictions that a boost would lay a heavy tax on the poor and deal a terrific political blow to the Republican party.

Having already raised the tariff on basic raw wool from thirty-one to thirty-four cents, the senate was confronted with proposals by Senator Smoot (R) of Utah, chairman of the finance committee, to increase the tariff on woolen goods all down the line to compensate manufacturers for the higher price of the raw product.

The famous "schedule K" of the Payne-Aldrich and the Fordney-McCumber tariff bills—which once nearly disrupted the Republican party—had been dressed up in new form as mere "schedule H" of the Hawley-Smoot bill under consideration. The change was made, it is understood, to escape the opprobrium that lingered in the minds of many from the country-wide attacks upon "schedule K."

The senate had before it the forecast of Senator Walsh (D) of Massachusetts that the proposed tariff boosts would not only injure the wool manufacturers by causing poor people to use substitutes and hurt the wool growers by decreasing demand, but that the action would be a factor in the next election.

WOMAN DEAD; MAN IS UNDER ARREST

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 22.—A woman is dead here today and a man is being held for investigation at city prison.

The man, Wayne Blackstone, 30, contends that the dead woman, Mrs. Helen Bailey Harris, 24, shot herself after sending him to get her a glass of water.

Blackstone said, "She threatened to kill us both but I took the revolver away from her Wednesday and placed it in my shoe repair shop for safe keeping but she came for it Thursday and I let her have it."

She shot herself shortly before noon Thursday, but she did not succumb until late last night.

FINISHES HALF ITS PROGRAM FOR FARM RELIEF AND TARIFF

Regular Sessions To Resume December 2, After Week Off

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The "Hoover honeymoon" session of the seventy-first congress, summoned for farm relief and tariff revision, neared its death today with half its program incomplete but leaving behind an ambitious record of legislative achievements.

Congress faced a week's vacation, before meeting in regular session December 2, with a record topped by enactment of a farm relief bill and the appropriation of $151,500,000 to carry the relief program into effect. It departed, however, with the tariff bill still pending in the senate, after its passage in the house, and with several months of active labor in prospect before it can become a law.

This "honeymoon" session had a career quite like the honeymoon of a newspaper comic. It began with every body friends, under clear skies, and ended in wholesale quarreling, under stormy conditions. The senate furnished the battleground and the actors and the adjournment found the Republican party there split into three factions, a newly formed "young guard" vying with the "old guard" and "discontents" for the congressional spotlight.

The senate also maintained its reputation for investigations, conducting a half dozen in all and featuring a long awaited inquiry into lobbying activities within the halls of congress. The Shearman inquiry, with its plot involving the Geneva disarmament conference, another into a "leak" into its secret sessions, still others into Indian affairs and patronage matters rounded out the program.

One of its most important inquiries involved the right of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon to hold his cabinet position while a stockholder in several great corporations. The inquiry died when a majority of the senate judiciary committee declared Mellon was holding office legally. This verdict was accepted by the senate and terminated an issue that had reverberated through congress ever since the start of the Harding administration eight years ago.

The "honeymoon" session's legislative record follows:

Farm relief bill enacted and signed by president.

An appropriation of $151,500,000 provided for farm relief.

A congressional reapportionment and census bill enacted.

Senate ratified the Franco-American debt settlement.

A fund of $4,250,000 appropriated for eradication of the Mediterranean fruit fly.

A fund of $1,000,000 appropriated for farmers and fruit growers in the storm and flood stricken areas of the South.

A fund of $38,000,000 authorized for inland transportation of mails.

A fund of $3,000,000 appropriated to buy new government lands in Washington.

Although the senate failed to pass the tariff bill, which the house enacted, there were a number of important measures approved by the senate, which the house failed to act upon. Some of these follow:

Senate passed Borah bill, prohibiting unfair practices in marketing perishable agricultural products.

Senate adopted Norris resolution, proposing constitutional amendment to eliminate "lame duck" sessions of congress and change date of inaugurations.

Senate approved army promotion bill.

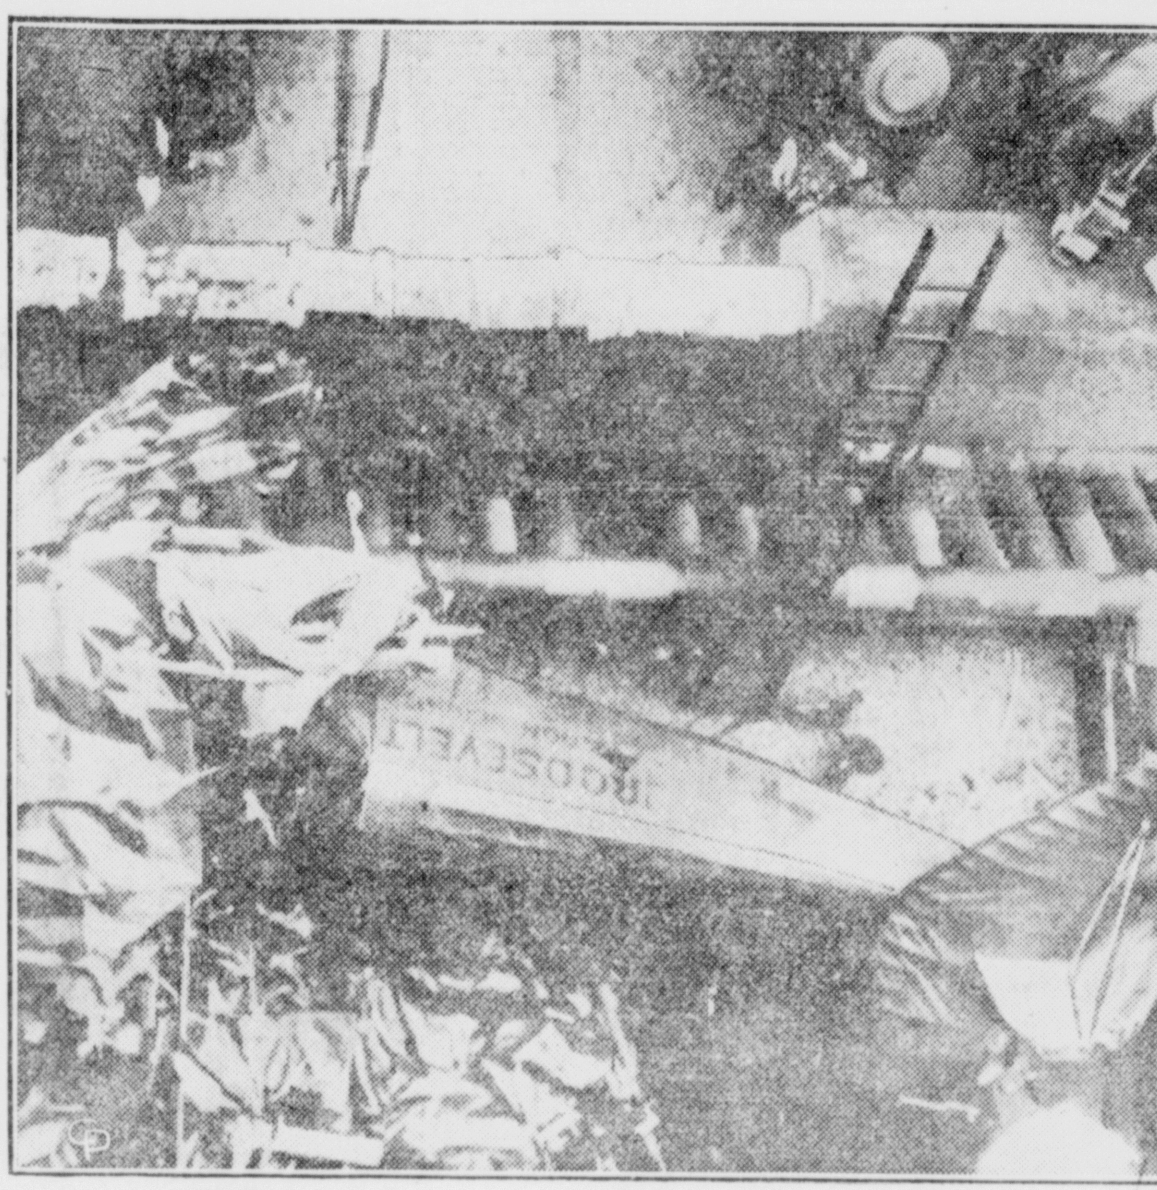

Senate passed bill increasing salaries of capitol employees.

Senate enacted Smoot bill, authorizing new government short term securities.

The senate also confirmed a number of presidential nominations, topped by the appointment of former Vice President Dawes as ambassador to Great Britain, and concluding with the appointment of Senator Walter E. Edge as ambassador to France. The new farm board was included in this list.

There were numerous other diversions during the session, such as the defense of high tariffs in the house by Democratic representatives from the South and the rejection of a resolution by the senate condemning a beer bottle attack on Senator J. Thomas Heflin (D) of Ala. at Brockton, Mass. On the social side, there were the visits of Charles L. Lindbergh and Premier Ramsay MacDonald, and the notable occasion in the senate when Mrs. Dolle Gann sat side by side with Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth—right in the midst of the social war.

WRECKAGE OF PLANE ON ROOF OF BUILDING

Central Press telephoto of the wreckage of a plane piloted by Charles I. Reid, 35, of Manhattan, who crashed into the roof of an apartment building in the heart of New York City after the plane went into a tail spin while flying over Central Park. Reid was killed instantly. His companion, Robert J. Baillie, 24, a lion tamer, escaped by a parachute jump. Photo shows the wreckage of the plane as seen from the roof of an adjoining building.

CLEMENLEAU FACES DEATH; CONDITION REPORTED SERIOUS

Injections Of Camphor Bring Relief To "Tiger" Friday

PARIS, Nov. 22.—Injections of camphor oil administered to former Premier Clemenceau this afternoon relieved his suffering somewhat, it was stated by Dr. Degennes, one of the physicians attending him.

Dr. Degennes issued the following statement when he left M. Clemenceau's home at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon after examining the aged statesman for a half an hour:

"The patient is again lucid. He said he was suffering great pain in his stomach but I thought it unwise to continue the morphia injections so I injected camphor oil instead. M. Clemenceau is now resting comfortably."

Three doctors assembled at the eighty-eight year old tiger's home this morning after Clemenceau had spent the night in sleep induced by injections of morphia. He had suffered agonies of pain throughout last evening and the early part of the night, and the injections were given him to allow him the peace of sleep.

WRIST WATCHES FOR COPS EFFEMINATE

JERSEY CITY, Nov. 22.—Jersey City policemen wearing wrist watches ran the danger today of being considered effeminate by their chief, Director of Safety John Beggans.

Beggans' dislike for this type of timepiece came to light yesterday when a patrolman explained his absence from duty by saying he was hunting for his misplaced wrist watch.

"I don't like to see cops wearing wrist watches," the safety director declared. "I wish they would give them back to their sisters."

TWO BOUND PRISONERS LEAP TO DEATH FROM SPEEDING TRAIN

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 22.—Scouting reports that two men, answering to the descriptions of L. C. Smith and Albert Copley, escaped Logan County convicts, had been seen near Ripley on the Charleston-Pomeroy Road, state penitentiary and Jackson County authorities concluded today that both prisoners had drowned when they leaped from a Baltimore and Ohio speeding train as it passed over a bridge near Ravenswood yesterday.

Handcuffed together and locked to a chain, the men were one of the forty-two prisoners who were being taken to the state prison at Moundsville.

When the train neared Ravenswood, both suddenly dived from a coach window, snapping the chain. They plunged thirty-five feet into water thirty feet deep. The Ohio River was swollen at this point and it is believed impossible that two men who are handcuffed together, could swim in the current.

Smith and Copley were under five-year sentences for grand larceny.

WIRELESS OPERATOR BESIEGED BY MUTINOUS CREW ASKS HELP

MALTA, Nov. 22.—Four British destroyers were steaming to the aid of an embattled wireless operator on the British steamer Baron Elcho in the Mediterranean Sea today.

Locked in his cabin and threatened with death by a mutinous crew, the operator lay in touch with the British wireless station here, informing naval officers of his plight.

The operator said the mutineers had imprisoned the officers of the vessel after drugging them. The wireless operator, escaping the drugging at the mess table, was set upon by the crew but he fled to his wireless room and barred the doors and windows.

STATE POLICE WILL QUELL MINE RIOTS

LOGAN, W. Va., Nov. 22.—Lieut. Frank Gibson and a special detachment of state police are here today to remain indefinitely to cope with any labor riots which are reported to be brewing.

Rumors report that non-union men, who are working at the different mines in this district are ready to break out into violence against men who are reported to be organizing the coal miners' union. Other reports place the blame on the union, which, it is charged, will try to oust the non-union laborers.

THREE UNHURT WHEN AUTO LEAVES ROAD

POMEROY, O., Nov. 22.—Three boys, on their way to high school in a dilapidated collegiate automobile had a narrow escape from serious injury or death today when the machine which was traveling at a high rate of speed, skidded on a snow-covered road and landed upside down on a railroad track at the brink of a thirty-foot wall overlooking the Ohio River. The boys climbed out. None was as much as scratched.

LARGER ZEPPELIN TO BE CONSTRUCTED

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—The construction of a new Zeppelin, the LZ-128, with 50 per cent greater gas capacity than the Graf Zeppelin and larger than England's giant dirigible R-101, will be started within ten days.

A new hangar, built especially to house the new air giant, has now been completed. The new dirigible will cost approximately $2,000,000.

MERCY MURDER AND SUICIDE REPORTED

LONDON, Nov. 22.—What is apparently another "mercy murder" occurred at Falmouth, England today, when Mrs. Harry Jenkins, wife of a well-to-do British contractor, strangled her paralyzed daughter Marjorie, 23, and then committed suicide by inhaling gas.

No other motive has been found for the crime except that Mrs. Jenkins wished to end her daughter's suffering.

HOOVER SATISFIED RESULTS WILL HELP RESTORE BUSINESS

Favorable Factors Support View Of Sound Conditions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—President Hoover and those who have been aiding him in the job of rebuilding national confidence in the immediate business future—a confidence severely shaken by stock exchange gymnastics—viewed the situation with considerable satisfaction today.

The series of business clinics which Mr. Hoover has been conducting with railroad heads, manufacturers, industrialists, merchants, bankers and men of large affairs generally, has resulted in bringing forcibly to public attention an imposing array of favorable factors which support the view that business conditions are basically sound, and that prosperity is still a part of the national picture.

Briefly summarized, these factors, as developed by the White House conferences, are:

1. The great railroad systems of the country are planning to spend $1,000,000,000 during the next year for equipment and in expansion activities.
 2. The utilities interests are mapping out an expansion program for next year greater than they carried through this year. An indication of what this means may be gleaned from the fact that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company alone spent some $600,000,000 this year.
 3. Henry Ford is going to raise wages in his plants. His experts are now working out the plans for percentage increases in all classes of employment, and the history of such increases has been that industry generally follows an example to higher levels.
 4. Steel manufacturers have assured the president their prospects are good for the next year, and that instead of retrenching they are going ahead with plant extensions and replacements.
 5. Automobile manufacturers in-

AGED WOMAN KILLED WHEN HIT BY AUTO

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 22.—Miss Mary E. Hane, 69, is dead here today due to injuries which she received when she was struck by an automobile as she alighted from a street car.

The accident which occurred as the woman was enroute to a church wedding snuffed out her life almost instantly.

The driver was released after being questioned.

"Bossy" Leads Ticket

Mayor Andrew Gillis, of Newburyport, won an easy victory in the primaries, polling 2,338 votes, while his nearest opponent, former Mayor Michael Cashman, polled 1,612. "Bossy" is shown leaving the polling booth after he had cast his own vote.

PAPER COMPANY STORAGE SHED AT CEDARVILLE RAZED BY FIRE

Loss estimated by officials of the concern at approximately $8,000, fully covered by insurance, was caused when 20,000 bales of dry wheat straw stored in a rick at the plant of The Hazar Straw Board and Paper Co. in Cedarville burned Thursday afternoon.

The plant proper was not endangered and no other buildings were within the area of the blaze, which was soon under complete control.

Employees in the rotary room at the mill discovered the fire at 2:45 p. m. and sounded a general alarm.

NOTE SUIT FILED; EXECUTORS NAMED; OTHER COURT NEWS

Asserting that $570 is due from the defendant on a promissory note, which has become lost or destroyed, Nora E. Purtee has brought suit in Common Pleas Court against Fred Woodson for a judgment for that amount. The plaintiff declares she does not have a copy of the note. Foreclosure and sale of mortgaged property is sought and it is also asked that the priority of liens be determined.

EXECUTORS NAMED

W. J. Tarbox has been appointed executor of the estate of Rose Chambers, deceased, with bond of $1,000 in Probate Court. J. E. Hastings, R. S. Townsley and J. M. Auld were named appraisers.

Herman L. Evans and Lawrence E. Evans have been named joint executors of the estate of Frank S. Evans, deceased, without bond. Frank Peterson, W. J. Evans and Ed Evans were appointed appraisers.

D. E. Martin was appointed executor of the estate of William J. Martin, late of Xenia, bond being dispensed with.

O. C. Harner has been named executor of the estate of Jennie Harner, deceased, without bond.

HEARING SET

Application of Mrs. John Gentner and Jacob Stewart to be released as sureties on the bond of Stella Gentner, as administratrix of the estate of Samuel Gentner, deceased, has been assigned for a hearing November 25 in Probate Court.

by blowing the factory whistle and a siren. The private fire department at the plant was pressed in to service and the village apparatus also fought the blaze, keeping three streams of water playing on the huge piles of smoking straw.

The bales of straw were stored in three sections and the blaze, first noticed beneath the shed roof of the rick in the south section near the street, is thought to have been caused by spontaneous combustion.

Dense volumes of smoke handicapped the efforts of those combating the blaze. Employees utilized the recently purchased gasoline fire pump at the plant with good results, water being obtained from a large reserve tank, from wells and from Massies Creek, a small stream which runs along the rear of the plant.

Although fully under control, the mass of straw smoldered all night and will continue to do so for several more days, it is expected. It was necessary to play six streams of water on the straw all night and the same procedure was being followed Friday morning. The village fire apparatus went out early Thursday evening but the private equipment of the company carried on efficiently. A number of holes were cut in the roof of the shed in order to better fight the blaze.

Officials of the company announced that the blaze will probably have to burn itself out and meanwhile a careful watch will be kept to make certain other buildings in the vicinity are not endangered.

The baled straw was valued at between $7,000 and $8,000 and the shed was also a total loss. It is expected that about one-third of the straw will be salvaged but it will be thoroughly water soaked and probably worthless if it is pointed out.

HOOVER SATISFIED RESULTS WILL HELP RESTORE BUSINESS

formed Mr. Hoover that while production this year may drop off somewhat from last year's abnormally high figures, they are counting on normal production and normal expansions.

6. The outlook is for easier money conditions, as reflected in lower discount rates and the divition of the president and his score of "big business" callers subscribed at the conclusion of their conference.

7. Employers and labor heads have both given their word to President Hoover that the wage question will not be agitated during the present emergency—the employers not to cut wages and labor not to demand increases.

The president considers this latter factor a most important one. It is that when any country is building houses and factories that country is a prosperous country.

"It was considered," said the statement, "that the absorption of capital in loans on the stock market had postponed much construction and that the flow of this capital back to industry and commerce would now assist the new construction."

One of Mr. Hoover's pet theories is that when any country is building houses and factories that country is a prosperous country.

The large group that conferred at the White House yesterday, which included such industrial figures as Henry Ford, Owen D. Young, Pierre DuPont, Alfred Sloan, Myron C. Taylor, Julius Rosenwald, Homer Ferguson, Charles M. Woolley, Eugene G. Grace, and Walter Gifford, was turned in to a temporary advisory committee which will function through the present unsettled period, and until a more or less permanent organization can be effected to counsel the government in the maintenance of prosperous times.

Out of the conferences which the president has held this week and which he will continue next week, has developed, also, a definite policy of close co-operation between ordinary business and commercial agencies and those the government maintains.

Julius Barnes, chairman of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, and long associated with Mr. Hoover, was given the task of creating an executive committee from this group to work out a definite program for expansion of construction activities and maintenance of employment.

Later, Barnes announced the meeting would be held in the capital within two weeks, and will include representatives of all major industries of the country. The conference will choose an executive committee which will co-operate with government agencies "to assist in organizing business to help itself."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

TRUE WORSHIPERS—The hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshipers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth: for the Father seeketh such to worship him. God is a spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.—John 4:23, 24.

"TAY PAY"

The late Thomas Power O'Connor sat in the mother of parliaments for forty-nine years, a single twelvemonth short of half a century. This distinction is earned by few men, while to fewer still is it given to exert the influence on their times that this gifted Irishman wielded for so long a period.

There were two strings to "Tay Pay's" bow. "The father of the commons" was also "the dean of Fleet street." The tongue that he used with such telling effect at Westminster went hand in hand, if we may borrow an Irish construction, with a pen sharpened by native wit. One served as faithfully as the other, a mind whose knowledge of human nature was seasoned by the milk of human kindness. O'Connor never took his politics into the drawing room.

Although a staunch Nationalist O'Connor could love Ireland without hating England, a trait that cost him the affection of the direct actionists, who put more faith in automatics than in arguments. The debt Irish freedom owes him will not be accurately estimated until history has placed the last scenes of the drama in their proper place in the line of causation. At least, when the final clash came, O'Connor's lifelong plea for the exercise of patience and reason softened the blow and weakened the opposition to Irish autonomy based on the assumption that all Irishmen are untamed savages unable to govern themselves.

The hand of death must have fallen gently on a man so full of years and of that esteem which his fellowmen reserve for those rare individuals who rise above nationality and become in fact citizens of the world.

ISTAMBUL

The Turkish Nationalists threaten to return to the senders all letters and telegrams addressed to "Constantinople" or "Byzance." They are determined that the world outside of Turkey shall recognize and use the name "Istanbul." They have a right to establish their own nomenclature; but in this instance they seem to be making much ado about nothing.

Constantinople took the name of Constantine the Great, when he merged the Greek suburb of Byzantium, which had been founded in the seventh century before Christ, with the native city and made the resultant municipality the capital of the Roman empire. The name the Turkish Nationalists now insist upon everyone using is equally foreign, as "Istanbul" is merely a corruption of three Greek words meaning "into the city." The word was so unfamiliar to Europe in Lord Byron's day that he used a footnote to explain:

Though I fly to Istanbul,
Athens holds my heart and soul.

The drastic measures proposed to force the adoption of "Istanbul" show how seriously the Turkish Nationalists take themselves and their program. The Chinese Nationalists have changed the name of Peking to "Peiping;" but they don't seem to care a perforated "cash" what other people call it.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—According to publishers' announcements, "The Specialist" no longer leads the list of best sellers, being succeeded by Calvin Coolidge's autobiography in the nonfictional list.

OH, HOW HE HAS NURSED IT!

Eddie Cantor has written to the management of The Pet Show, at Madison Square Garden, to inquire whether his block of Anacanda Copper stock is eligible for entry.

"If you know how I've walked the floor with that stock in the last two weeks," he wrote, "nursing it through its attack of falling of the arches—and if you realized what a pet it always has been around the Cantor home, you'd not only let me enter it in your show but you'd award it first prize. And oblige, Edward (Eddie) Cantor."

MEBBE — BUT HARDLY

In "Winter Bound" at the Garrick, one of the women in the show makes an apple pie; and following the cast of characters in the program is the note: "Apples by I. Mizner."

This delicious regard for credit is encouraging. Some day, you'll read in the program of a successful revue: "Shoes by I. Miller. Jokes by Joe Miller."

GIRLIER AND DULLER

They've opened a new burlesque house at Eighth avenue and 42nd street, at the American Music Hall. The crowd piles in expectantly night after night and emerges gloom-laden and disappointed.

They seem to have lost the art of burlesque in town. The comedians are less and less amusing year after year. As compensation for such a deplorable state of affairs the nearly undressed chorus girls are growing younger and prettier and have better figures. That is to say, the emphasis in burley-cue is being placed more and more on sex titillation and less and less on humor. There are a few girls in burlesque around town who wouldn't look out of place in a Zigfield musical comedy or in George White's "Scandals." But there isn't a comedian who could qualify for a Broadway revue or musical comedy. Burlesque in New York is getting girlier and duller all the time.

JINX RIDDEN PUGS

Tiger Flowers used to read from the bible in his dressing room before stepping into the ring . . . Jack Berg, the Whitechapel Jew, wears a prayer shawl into the ring under his bathrobe . . . Gene Tunney never preceded his opponent into the squared circle. When he fought Dempsey he kept the crowd waiting 20 minutes until Jack had appeared first . . . Jack Sharkey won't permit his managers to put on his right glove . . . And Kid Chocolate makes the sign of the cross before getting into action, also insisting that the knot on his left shoe be tied in the back.

THE WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

BYRON'S WIFE

The poet Byron, his friends would concede, did not make an entire success of domestic life. It is interesting to discover what his wife's ideas of a proper husband was. At least, it was her idea before she married Byron. One reads from "The Life of Lady Byron," by Ethel Mayne, that the young lady said she would demand:

1. Consistent principles of duty.
2. Strong and generous feelings.
3. "Genius is not in my opinion necessary, though desirable, if united with what I have just mentioned.
4. Freedom from suspicion and from habitual ill humor.
5. "An equal tenor of affection toward me, not violent attachment."
6. Fortune enough to keep her as she had been kept.
7. "Rank is indifferent to me"—but she thought good connections important.
8. "I do not regard beauty, but am influenced by the manners of a gentleman, without which I scarcely think anyone could attract me."

She then added that she would not enter into a family where there was a stronger tendency to insanity. And like many other estimable young women, Mrs. Byron, once she was married, took what she got and presumably made the best of it.

KEEPING THE LEAD

Whatever may be the worries of the people of the United States about stock speculation or its bad effects on business, the big thing to take comfort in is the ability of the manufacturers of this country to produce, in so many lines, better goods than are made anywhere else in the world. Banfi, chief engineer in the Italian broadcasting system, makes the statement that "there is virtually no department of radio in which the United States does not stand above all other nations." He has recently visited us. So have other European radio authorities.

AFTERWARDS

After elections are over the normal man wonders why he took himself and the issues and the candidates quite so seriously. No matter who is elected to office in city, state or nation, nothing ever happens quite so bad or quite so good as the excited populace expected.

Who's Who and Timely Views

TEACHING YOUTH LESSON OF TEMPERANCE URGED
By H. C. BALDRIDGE

Governor of Idaho (H. Clarence Baldridge was born at Carlock, Ill., Nov. 24, 1868. He studied at Illinois Wesleyan university. In 1904 he settled at Parma, Idaho, and engaged in the mercantile and banking business. From 1916 to 1927 he was president of the First National bank at Parma. A Republican, he was a member of the Idaho house of representatives from 1911 to 1913 and the state senate the next two years. From 1923 to 1927 he was lieutenant governor of Idaho. He was elected governor in the latter year.)

The appalling crimes of our age are such that it is time for all of us to face the issues squarely. Unless we read the history of mankind correctly and heed the warnings, this civilization of ours will in turn find its place among those that have gone before. Our civilization, like every civilization of the past, is subject to the same evil influences, the same attacks of social disintegration and destruction.

When the eighteenth amendment had become part of the constitution, the American people said, in effect: "Well, that job is done; let's go home."

Prohibition closed the saloons. Few children now in high school remember them at all. Of all the results of this salutary law in the United States none is more important than the improved condition of child life.

But with the closing of the saloon went the apparent necessity for stressing the evils of alcohol, and thus one of the staunchest allies of the prohibitionists was lost. Deceived by the victory that had been won, the fighters went home.

No one expected, of course, that an orgy of bootlegging would follow prohibition; just as no one would have suspected that multitudes would become deliberate law-breakers just to prove they can and will drink. But both of these things happened, and together they constitute a serious situation.

It may mean the fighting of the old battle all over again. At least it does mean that young people must again be taught the lesson of temperance. That lesson should never have been interrupted.

THE ONE MINUTE PULPIT

Now there are diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit. And there are diversities of administrations, but the same Lord. And there are diversities of operations, but it is the same God, which worketh all in all.

But the manifestation of the Spirit is given to every man to profit withal.—1 Corinthians, xii, 4-7.

PERILS OF THE TURKEY HUNT!

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

While telling stories which illustrate the human side of beauty culture, I must not omit the one of a woman who, through illness, lost her cheerful outlook on life.

She was a teacher much loved by the great number of pupils who came daily under her tutelage. She received much adulation, as she was not only charming in manner, beautiful in face and figure. After the existence went along in an even, happy manner until she was taken with arthritis, which confined her to her home for a great length of time. During the period of her illness, she aged terribly, lines appearing on her forehead, around her eyes and mouth. . . her countenance sagged and it became a source of distress for her to look at her reflection in the mirror.

Formerly her beauty had been a source of pride, but now she was embarrassed about seeing her friends during her convalescence. A sister watched with perturbation her cancellations of social calls and her withdrawal from all social intercourse. Being a clever woman she did not waste much time in contemplation, but went to a beauty specialist whom she had formerly consulted for herself. The beauty specialist explained that the long period in which her sister had been forced to remain indoors was responsible for the dry condition of her skin and that it could be overcome with nourishment and care; also that the contour could be brought back to normal with a good muscle tightener.

It took a little persuasion to get the consent of the teacher to allow the nurse to take her to the beauty specialist, but after the first treatment, she went happily. After the third visit she began to show decided improvement. It was not long before her face was beginning to show its former loveliness. It happened, however, that after the first six treatments she began to arrive late. After this tardiness had been repeated for several appointments, the specialist asked her if it were not possible for her to be more prompt, as the time was carefully allotted and there were many demands on it.

When the beauty expert heard the reason for her tardiness, she was more than pleased. The teacher's friends were constantly stopping her on her way to the salon to compliment her on the tremendous improvement in her appearance, and these conversations took so much time that they had made her late.

She promised, however, to start a half hour earlier to permit of the delay.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The mere fact that a few cigar stubs tossed smoldering into a powder magazine, have gone out harmlessly, by extraordinary good luck, does not make the tossing of smoldering cigar stubs into powder magazines a safe practice.

Senator Robert B. Howell, of Nebraska, began it recently—the careless flipping of lighted cigar stubs into the prohibition powder magazine. No one was surprised to see Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, begin imitating him immediately. Members of congress always did consider the tossing of downright criminally reckless with his cigar stubs, not only in the prohibition powder magazine but wherever political high explosives are kept.

Brookhart actually wants an explosion; there is no doubt about that. Howell is spoken of, rather, as thoughtless. He is blamed for it to be sure. Still, he is not as bad as Brookhart. The latter positively is malicious. A prohibition explosion probably cannot hurt him; Iowa appears to be thoroughly dry. It may very easily hurt others, in more uncertain states; cigar stub-tossing in that magazine scares them nearly to death.

However, what better can one expect from a couple of progressives? Their progressive-ism, in itself, marks them as without the slightest sense of responsibility.

It was when the venerable Senator Frederick H. Gillett, of Massachusetts, started stub-tossing, too, that the horrified onlookers fairly turned pale and quaked in every limb.

True, Gillett is perhaps as explosion-proof as Brookhart or Howell. For one thing, maybe he intends to retire at his term's end; if so, what does he care for personal consequences? Besides, his state is supposed to be as wet as Iowa and Nebraska are dry. Wets in wet states and dries in dry states can equally afford to defy the lightning, because they know on which side of the mouth to defy it on.

possible for the dry condition of her skin and that it could be overcome with nourishment and care; also that the contour could be brought back to normal with a good muscle tightener.

It took a little persuasion to get the consent of the teacher to allow the nurse to take her to the beauty specialist, but after the first treatment, she went happily. After the third visit she began to show decided improvement. It was not long before her face was beginning to show its former loveliness. It happened, however, that after the first six treatments she began to arrive late. After this tardiness had been repeated for several appointments, the specialist asked her if it were not possible for her to be more prompt, as the time was carefully allotted and there were many demands on it.

When the beauty expert heard the reason for her tardiness, she was more than pleased. The teacher's friends were constantly stopping her on her way to the salon to compliment her on the tremendous improvement in her appearance, and these conversations took so much time that they had made her late.

She promised, however, to start a half hour earlier to permit of the delay.

Nevertheless, hitherto Gillett has had the reputation of one of the most discreet of statesmen; not discreet for himself alone, but discreet also in behalf of his fellow politicians.

Senator Howell's charge that Washington is as wet a spot as any in the country (meaning mighty wet) was a risky enough cigar stub.

Senator Brookhart's story of a very wet dinner he had attended, with several more senators, was potentially an even worse cigar stub—but fortunately there are indications that it had gone out when Brookhart flipped it. In other words, it seems unlikely that Brookhart will be able to prove the dinner's wetness. No one disputes the moral certainty of its wetness, but proving it legally is a different matter.

The worst cigar stub of all (one of the worst ever tossed into the prohibition magazine) was Senator Gillett's.

When Gillett stated, on the senate floor that he frequently had seen members of the house of representatives (over which he formerly presided as speaker) transacting business under the influence of liquor—

Is it possible he did not realize that he was liable to start an investigation? A congressional investigation is not like a trial in a law court—where accusations must be established beyond the shadow of a reasonable doubt—where embarrassing questions can be headed off—where there is a higher tribunal to appeal to—where an acquittal settles everything.

Anything under heaven can be brought out during a congressional investigation. There are no rules, no jury to horsewaggle, no mercy—nothing but diabolical publicity.

And right after the capture, too, of a bootlegger, his wares in his possession, in the senate office building.

Say! Are the senators worried? They are this much worried: "The other day some fiend hid a cocktail shaker in a certain solon's desk in the senate chamber. On finding it, the solon was so afraid of having the life kidded out of him that he hid it in a brother solon's desk, and this latter solon hid it in a third solon's, and so on up to nobody knows just how many, until finally one bolder than the rest, smuggled the infernal thing out, wrapped in dozens of newspapers, like a laundry bundle.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Today's Recipes

Philadelphia Scramble—One and one-half pounds cooked lean pork, one-half pound cooked liver, liquid and water, three cups corn meal, one tablespoon salt, two-thirds teaspoon pepper, two tablespoons grated onion. Put meats through food chopper. Measure liquid in which meat was cooked, and add enough water to make three quarts. Stir in corn meal as for mush and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add meat, salt, pepper and onion and cook, still stirring. When cooked put in molds and, when cold, slice and fry.

Fruit Salad, Currant Jelly—One cup diced peaches, one cup diced grapefruit, one cup diced pear, one cup skinned seeded grapes, one cup diced pineapple. French dressing, currant dressing or jelly. Combine fruits and chill, then add half a cup French dressing into which two tablespoons currant jelly have been beaten. Serve on lettuce, passing whipped cream if desired.

MY MOTHER'S FRUIT CAKE (Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)—One cup sugar, one-half cup shortening, one egg, one-fourth cup molasses, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon allspice, one-half teaspoon cloves, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half cup milk, one cup raisins, one cup currants, one cup mixed candied peel, cut fine, flour to make a stiff batter. Bake slowly for an hour.

THE PINES AND THE SEA

Beyond the low marsh-meadows and the beach,
Seen through the hoary trunks of windy pines,
The long blue level of the ocean shines.
The distant surf, with hoarse, complaining speech,
Aut from its sandy barrier seems to reach;
And while the sun behind the woods declines,
The moaning sea with sighing boughs combines,
And waves and pines make answer, each to each.
O melancholy soul, whom far and near,
In life, faith, hope, the same sad undertone
Pursues from thought to thought! thou needs must hear
An old refrain, too much, too long thine own:
'Tis thy mortality infects thine ear;
The mournful strain was in thyself alone.

—Christopher P. Granch (1813-92)

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

Mock Turkey

GOODNESS knows how many are not going to be able to afford turkey for Thanksgiving this year—I mean among those who usually do have them—after the recent stock market crash. And then there are those who perhaps had better not have anything so delicious as turkey cooked at home, because they should have a very limited amount of protein in the diet, and the tendency to over-eat of home-cooked turkey is so great. Those who have a tendency to putrefaction with auto-intoxication, those who have high blood pressure, kidney, heart and arterial diseases, for instance, should not only tread lightly in the protein path, but they should not overeat in general. But on holidays we want to have something unusually nice, so I'll repeat the vegetarian Thanksgiving dinner I gave last year. It's approximately a 1,000 C. dinner. Enough! I'll give the amounts and their caloric values so that my reducers will know what they are getting.

The vegetable roast is one that is used at the Battle Creek Sanitarium, and I will vouch for its deliciousness. I take it from Cooper's "The New Cookery."

THANKSGIVING MENU
(Vegetarian)
Fat-free Vegetable Consomme (4 oz.) 15 C.
Radishes (4) Celery (3 pieces) Total, 25 C.
One slice Melba Toast, 50 C.
Mock Turkey (3 oz.) 220 C.
Cream of Mushroom Gravy (2 tablespoons) 50 C.

Sweet Potato (small) Southern Style 200 C.
String beans, half cup, 25 C.
Baked Onions (3 1-2 oz.) 50 C.
Cranberry Jelly (1 rounded tablespoonful) 100 C.
Tomato and Lettuce Salad, 25 C. (1 medium tomato, 6 leaves lettuce)
Apple Juice (6-oz. glass) 80 C.
Lemon Juice (half usual size slice) 115 C.
Whipped Cream, 50 C.

Perhaps you haven't a vegetarian cook book, so I will give you the recipe for Mock Turkey. It is delicious.

Mock Turkey or Savory Roast
Two cups legume puree, two eggs, half cup toasted bread crumbs, half cup browned flour, two teaspoons celery salt, two teaspoons sage, one cup strained tomato, two cups nut meal or finely chopped nuts, one-fourth cup cream, two tablespoons grated onion, one teaspoon salt.

Cook the legume—lentils, peas or beans—until quite tender and dry. Make into a puree by mashing through a colander. Beat the eggs slightly, add the puree and the other ingredients in the order given. Then bake in a loaf in a hot oven over 20 to 30 minutes, or until nicely browned. This mixture may be shaped to represent a fowl. Calories in recipe: Protein, 910; fat, 1,100; carbohydrates, 970; total 2,980. Approximate calories in one serving (two ounces): Protein, 45; fat, 50; carbohydrates, 50; total 145.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

DIVORCE statistics show that it is much oftener the wife who seeks the divorce than the husband. I don't know whether this implies that men are more long suffering than women, or that there are fewer bad wives than husbands. Once the knot of matrimony is tied, it is surprising and encouraging how much of a strain it bears without breaking. In most instances there is an honest effort, born of real affection to make the tie hold. It is the jealous, selfish, nagging person who is the hardest to live with, and patient and self-sacrificing indeed is the person who puts up with such a one. Patience ceases to be a virtue in some instances, however.

Let no one think that showing jealousy proves that they love some one supremely. It merely shows that they love themselves a great deal better than anyone else, and that their inflated ego is deadly afraid of a puncture.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am 26 years old. I have been married three years. My wife is jealous of me. If I go to town by myself she is mad when I come home, and tells me I have been flirting with other girls. She has no right to be jealous as I haven't gone with another woman since I was married. I love her better than any woman I ever saw. When I am away from her I am just crazy."

"She has told me several times that she loved a boy that she went with before we were married better than she did me. I don't know if she just tells me that or really means it. We haven't got any children. Sometimes I think I will leave her. I don't know whether I would be satisfied or not if we were separated."

"I get her everything I can. I have been in hard luck this last year and could not buy her what I would like to. She quarrels so much it makes me unhappy."

"WEARIED HUSBAND"

I would not leave her without giving her a few more chances to be a good wife. Wearied Husband, she undoubtedly thinks she is showing her affection for you by being jealous, and she is very selfish. I think the talk of loving the boy she used to go with is nothing but talk to arouse your jealousy. I would pay no attention to it.

But I would have a serious talk with her and tell her that your home is not happy and cannot be unless she tries harder to make it so. That you are trying to do your part, and if she does not stop quarreling and accusing you of such untrue things, you will have to leave her. If she does not heed your warning, you might try a short separation and see if that has any effect. She is not in ill health, is she? Possibly a check-up by a doctor might be advisable to see that there is nothing wrong to cause her peevishness.

"DEAR VIRGINIA: I read each day with great interest your timely and good advice to discouraged souls in the column of the paper. For several months I have waited to set my case before you, but have hesitated, until I cannot bear to wait longer.

"No one knows my sorrow only my failing health, except one of my loving sons. This man whom I love, and who could give me love and all the other things that go to make a woman happy, is also married, and although he has never told me so, I am sure his life is very unhappy, and is made very disagreeable to him.

"Do you think it is very wrong, dear Virginia, considering all, if we two get divorces and then married? My children love him as much as I do, and would be so happy with him."

"SAD, SAD, MOTHER."

It is pretty hard to advise you without knowing more about your case, Sad Mother. I suppose your husband is the cause of your unhappiness. Has the man you love children? Does his wife love him, even though she does not make him happy, which seems to be surmise on your part? You see, divorce is pretty serious, especially where there are children. If he has children he would have to contribute to their support, are you SURE he would be good to you?

It is so much easier to be nice to children when you want to make a good impression on their mother, than it is to be a good father to them, to try to understand and give them love and counsel and companionship. Don't jump from the frying pan into the fire. Be sure that you are not trying to escape one miserable situation only to create a worse one. There are so many angles of a case to be considered.

Do nothing hastily. Try to see your case not as yours, but as that of another woman, and as viewing it try to think what advice you would give. Bear in mind, too, that the children's chances for happiness must come first. Write me again, give more details, if you think I can help.

THE COUSINS MAKE UP

Father Beetle stared at Stagg and Rose, and those Beetles hung their heads in shame.

"You wouldn't like all this to happen in your family, you know, now would you? And so we can Beetles made up our minds then that if ever we got a chance we would make you Garden Beetles know what it feels like to be chased and not know where you are going. When the opportunity came we took it. But now that we have shown you what it is like to be hunted instead of hunters, let us say no more about it. We are own cousins, and we ought to be fast friends. Wings are more useful than legs, as grandmother used to remark, and we insects who have both ought to fly and run together. So let's forget all about this morning, and start things anew."

"We are certainly ready to do so, if you are," Stagg and Rose spoke, as with one breath. Both of them shook claws with Father Beetle, and his party. "What has been so much fun for us has meant pain for you. We want to tell you that it has taught us both a good lesson."

"Do let's talk about something else," burst out Biffer. "Something pleasant—eats, for instance."

Everybody laughed, and Lady-Bird said:

"As usual, Biffer, you say what everybody else is thinking. I have been away from home all morning, and who knows what may have happened? Why, the house may be on fire, and my children alone!"

"Oh, pooh, Lady-Bird," interrupted Father Gun Beetle, as the nervous little Lady-Bug began to fuss. "You know perfectly well that for years you and all your sister and brothers and cousins and aunts have been worrying about the very same thing, and it has not happened yet. It probably never will."

"Well, I am afraid I ought—Lady-Bird was beginning when a shrill voice called "Dinner," and Peter thought he heard a faint tinkle.

Rose began to scuffle his feet. "My wife is calling me to dinner friends. Don't you hear her ringing the blue bell? I am so hungry I simply can't wait any longer. I long! I will see you later."

Saturday Will Be Pay-Off Day In Football

SPORT SNAP SHOTS FRAMED by Phil

If it is true that colleges and universities with the larger enrollments should develop the best football teams for no other reason than the fact more material is available from which to build a team, then Columbia University, coeducational school at New York City, should have the champion eleven of the country.

Columbia, with an enrollment of 6,588 students, is the largest school in the country. New York University, also located in New York City, ranks second with 24,146 students.

It is interesting to note that at Columbia University, which annually produces a great football team, has an enrollment of only 2,416 students—but they are all boys.

Third on the list of schools with the largest enrollments is the University of California, its figure being 7,730 as compared with 7,000 for Southern California.

The City College of New York comes fourth with 15,000 students, while Illinois University is fifth with 12,915. Boston University ranks with 13,065 and Ohio State University with 12,934.

These figures are based upon the 28th edition of the directory of the United States Department of Education, department of interior, and a number of students is not including those taking extension courses or casual courses in the summer schools.

Ohio Wesleyan's great adventure at hand. Chief interest in the football menu for this week end is the invasion of West Point by the Fighting Bishops and fans are all for Wesleyan to defeat Army Cagle and his Army cohorts. Army appears also to have received plenty for the Bishops. Army scouts appeared at the Wittenberg-Wesleyan game recently and they had scouted the team against Denison the preceding Saturday. The Military Academy began putting Wesleyan last season by sending two men to watch them defeat Syracuse.

Dr. P. Ward, well-known football authority, believes that Wesleyan has a chance to win. He says: "On form, class, etc., Wesleyan would fall before the Army eleven, but there are several points in the game that the Bishops and fans are all for Wesleyan to defeat Army Cagle and his Army cohorts. Army appears also to have received plenty for the Bishops. Army scouts appeared at the Wittenberg-Wesleyan game recently and they had scouted the team against Denison the preceding Saturday. The Military Academy began putting Wesleyan last season by sending two men to watch them defeat Syracuse."

ELEMENTS OF GREAT DRAMA INCLUDED AS OLD RIVALS TANGLE

California, Purdue And Notre Dame To Decide Future

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service
Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—It will be do-or-don't day tomorrow for nearly everybody who is anybody in intercollegiate football and, if they don't start paying off on a lot of national and sectional claims tonight, it won't be because destiny has mis-cast his characters. All of the elements of a great drama are there Notre Dame versus Northwestern, Purdue versus Indiana, California versus Stanford, Yale versus Harvard, Texas Christian versus Baylor. Given a few games like these and a drama simply goes out and blows the top of its volatile head off.

The Purdue boomerangs, for instance, need only to beat the arch-rival, Indiana, and not only will they finish the Big Ten season undefeated but national distinction will be theirs. Notre Dame must take one more hurdle with Northwestern at Evanston and, if it lands in the clear, only the Army stands between it and one of the finest records ever compiled by a football team. California, undefeated on the coast, is playing first, for the conference championship and, second, for national recognition. But, more important still, it is playing Stanford. Everything that has gone before is as nothing when this pair meets.

The Texas Christian-Baylor meeting may mean the difference between the national honors and nothing at all, for the former. Nobody has beaten the Christians and Baylor hardly looks the part. But football is a whimsical pastime. Southern Methodist, which ultimately must contend for the Southwest with the Christians, also will be employed during the afternoon and should survive the afternoon, strictly as is and as was.

Then the two trail-blazers of the Big Six, Nebraska and Kansas Aggies, are to bring matters down to a decision at Manhattan and, conditions being what they are, this pair must settle about everything there is to be settled out that way. Incidentally, the day of settlement seems to have arrived for Detroit and Fordham, a couple of unbeaten contenders. Detroit plays Oregon Aggies, the team that came on to make a chump out of N. Y. U. last year, and if the Aggies can be beaten, then Detroit's status from a national standpoint will be pretty definitely settled. The Aggies may not be such a much this year but only Stanford was able to make a real mugs out of them on the coast. Fordham plays Bucknell, one of the best in the east today, and it will have to be a good team if it wins this one.

In fact, only the inaction of Pittsburgh, Tennessee, Tulane and Utah, of the national contenders, prevents the day from going down in the books as the biggest of the year.

Notre Dame either will be the great team it has been since early October or it will suffer a natural reaction from the Southern California victory. Either way, it picks up a live one in Northwestern. In spite of the latter's defeat last Saturday by Indiana. This circumstance, by the way, makes the Purdue affair all the hotter. The latter can't be beaten for the title anyway, but that is an insignificant factor in the issue. Purdue, finishing its greatest season, gladly would sacrifice every honor to a victory over Indiana.

The affair will be the big number of the conference's closing day, others featuring Michigan against Iowa, Minnesota against Wisconsin and Ohio State against Illinois. Mr. Stagg's Chicago team also has chosen lots of action for itself in taking on the newly-inspired Washington huskies at Chicago.

BOWLING

Bucks made the race in the Recreation Bowling League a four-cornered affair by winning two out of three games from the champion Greene County Lumber Co. Thursday night. Shuey led the winners with a 576 series and Dice topped the losers with 536. D. Jordan rolled one game with the Bucks, the last, and recorded a 251 score.

In a City League match the same evening the league-leading Downton Country Club won three straight games from the Hooven and Allison Co. quintet. Purdue had a three-game total of 566 for the winners and Murrell led the H. and A. with 474. Box scores:

JAMESTOWN HIGH OPENS COURT SEASON; DEDICATES NEW GYM

Jamestown High School, which has been without a home basketball court for a number of years, will dedicate a new gymnasium in a double-header with the boys' and girls' basketball teams of Spring Valley High Friday night, marking the inaugural home games of the season.

The new playing floor is on the second floor of the Weimer building, which has been leased by the high school.

The girls' contest will be played as a preliminary to the boys' game. Due to the fact the new gym was not completed until recently, the Jamestown teams have engaged in but two practice sessions and will be placed at a disadvantage.

Donations of citizens in and near the village amounting to between $500 and $600 made the gym possible.

The present basketball schedule of Jamestown calls for eleven games, including seven at home, with two dates still open. Among other teams to be played are Bellbrook, Bowersville, Plattsburg, Caesars Creek, Sedalia and Cedarville.

ROGERS HORNSBY, THE TRAVELING BALL PLAYER, REPORTED HEADED FOR REDS

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports
Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Can it be that it is somebody else's turn to have all of that rudimentary fun in supporting Rogers Hornsby in the style to which he courageously has accustomed himself on a $40,000 a year basis? Personally, I doubt if it can be. The National League is bound to run out of $40,000 welcomes before Mr. Hornsby runs out of years to his contract. However, some of the boys seem to be writing him off as the second baseman of the 1930 Cubs and, with their wonted generosity, are trading him to the Cincinnati Reds for Hughie Crite "and others."

And, considering what has happened to the gentleman during the last four years, who are we to doubt this version? Let he who is without sense among you cast the first doubt.

Anyhow, Chicago had to have Hornsby last season and it got him. Maybe the club still wants him, for $40,000 is only the change out of a dollar to Wrigley and besides the man does strike that baseball with considerable frequency and force. But he is being chided rather bitterly by some critics for his display in the last world series and that sort of thing sometimes leads up to something drastic. In any case, they are crusading for youth and dash and flaming ambition out in Chicago and Mr. Hornsby neither is a combination of these virtues nor any of them.

Just why the Reds were nominated in this emergency I wouldn't care to say, unless it happens that they have nominated themselves. They have changed ownership since the close of the season and it takes a new owner some little time before he discovers how slowly the sum of $40,000 is counted in baseball. However, it is understood that the Reds figure they must have hitting this time at any cost, and, if they are of a mind to acquire Mr. Hornsby, he can be relied upon to give them plenty of both—namely, (a) hitting; (b) cost.

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 22.—Neither Bowstrom, left tackle, nor Spring, one of the Navy's most capable backs, will be in the lineup when the midshipmen meet West Virginia Wesleyan. Coach Ingram has decided that both boys need a rest to be at their best against Dartmouth Saturday week.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Indications today were that Coach Biff Jones plans to start the strongest army combination possible tomorrow against Ohio Wesleyan here on Mitchell field. The cadets wind up their preparation today with a light signal drill.

HARVARD READY FOR BATTLE WITH YALE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 22.—In fine physical and mental condition and with all work completed, Harvard today impatiently awaited the arrival of tomorrow and its annual game with Yale.

Save for Joe Potter, injured in the Holy Cross game, the rugged Crimson outfit is in great shape. Six members of the starting lineup faced the Blue last year when the Crimson won with plenty to spare.

The final drill yesterday proved that Coach Horween is planning to use the forward pass more than a little.

A dry, hard field is forecast.

SUBJECT OF SPEECH BEFORE MEN'S CLUB

DR. W. R. MCCHESNEY

"The Firm Foundation" was the subject of the address of Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College, to the men of the First Presbyterian Church, Thursday evening at an oyster supper meeting at the church.

Dr. McChesney said: "I wish to take as my topic this evening, 'The Firm Foundation'—the things which will secure the nation's future and secure this age. Christ two thousand years ago said that men should build their houses on rock—the rock foundation of true principles. You can not build an imposing superstructure on an insecure foundation.

"Our Colonial fathers built well into the foundations of America. Their care is our work. We must look after foundations of houses sometimes and foundation of national prosperity, if we are to withstand the tides without and the enemies within. Dangers and perils of America are not from without—they are from within. Let us consider the elements of 'the firm foundation.' If these parts are kept intact, the American republic will stand.

"First, the safety of the foundations of America is based on 'integrity'; second, the firm foundation is to be built on 'industry,' personal energy and national industrial prosperity, that every man may find useful employment; third, 'loyalty'—loyalty to the principles which characterize our national consciousness; fourth, the great principles of liberty and freedom and finally 'faith'—faith in God."

Dr. McChesney quoted Roger Pabson in a recent letter to Cedarville College in which he commended Cedarville and also said that the future of America is not "gold" but God. "The difference of one little letter would determine the nature of the development.

In closing the speaker appealed to all to maintain the high place of the forefathers in preserving America on "The Firm Foundation."

There were seventy-eight men present for the meeting. Dr. Paul D. Espey, chairman of the executive committee, presided at the meeting and introduced the speaker.

MRS. SMITH FIRES THE FURNACE

without leaving her chair!

During the coldest Winter weather, the Smith home, out in the edge of this city, is as warm and cozy as any place you can imagine... and it isn't because of a hundred-and-one trips to the basement to coax a lazy furnace.

Mrs. Smith "fires" the furnace without even opening the door to the basement stairs — perhaps between chapters of an interesting book, or while planning the evening meal, she stops a few seconds to set the automatic control on the wall to a figure representing the temperature she desires.

And down in the basement the gas-fired furnace answers the call—unfailingly and immediately.

PRAISE VERSUS PRAYER

Praise is more difficult than prayer. Possibly all ten of the lepers healed by Christ prayed, but only one returned to praise the Lord. We hold a kind of contempt for the nine who were healed and would not do so much as thank their healer.

We forget that there are corresponding kindnesses of God extended to us daily, the many ministrations of health and healing, the conditions which provide moral and religious liberty and life with its accompanying blessings of peace, prosperity and happiness.

As every good and perfect gift comes from God, praise belongs to him and where can our thanksgiving be better expressed than in the public service of worship which has in it much of praise. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?—D. Carl Yoder.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

The gospels hide the childhood of Jesus from our view, giving us only these few verses as a hint of what lies behind the scene.

Jesus grew up in secret and did not come forth before the world until he was ready for his work. We know he was a true human child and grew up through these stages and experiences of human life.

V. 40. "And the child grew and waxed strong, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon him." The whole charm of Jesus' boyhood life lies in the fact that he was a boy and not something else—a genuine boy, artless, inquiring, spirited, with his entire nature in free and healthful play. Yet he was a sinless child, pure in heart, pure in speech and pure in deed.

V. 41. "And his parents went every year to Jerusalem at the feast of the Passover." It was not incumbent for the mother to attend these feasts but Mary was an unusually good mother and would make the most of the religious life.

V. 42. "And when he was twelve years old, they went up after the custom of the feast." Twelve years of age is a natural turning point physically, mentally and religiously in the life of a child; if the home life has been correct, the turning point will be toward God.

Vs. 43, 44. "And when they had fulfilled the days as they were returning, the boy Jesus tarried behind in Jerusalem, and his parents knew it not. But supposing him to be in the company, they went a day's journey; and they sought for him among their kinsfolk and acquaintance." Joseph and Mary had implicit trust in the boy Jesus and did not worry about him until he was missed from the company.

Vs. 45, 46. "And when they found him not, they returned to Jerusalem, seeking for him. And it came to pass after three days they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the teachers both hearing them and asking them questions." The parents went back to the place where they had left Jesus. All men need to go back to the place where they lost their Christ.

V. 47. "And all they that heard him were amazed at his understanding and his answers." Jesus showed his power in the kind of questions he asked; he was a good pupil, quick to learn and understand truth.

V. 48. "And when they saw him, they were astonished; and his mother said unto him, Son, why hast thou thus dealt with us? Behold, thy father and I sought thee sorrowing." It is a mother love that speaks first; evidently she failed to understand her son; the need for parents is to know their children better.

V. 49. "And he said unto them, How is it that ye sought me? Knew ye not that I must be about my Father's house." Jesus gave a fundamental principle on which a developing life should be builded. Right relations with God put into practice are of first importance.

V. 51. "And he went down with them, and came to Nazareth; and he was subject unto them; and his mother kept all these sayings in her heart." True obedience does not interfere with the highest form of home life; it makes the ideal home possible.

Following the recent merger agreement between the Christian and Congregational churches, Dr. Fred B. Smith of New York, Congregational moderator and Dr. F. G. Coffin become, for the time being, co-ordinate heads of the combined denominations. Dr. Smith was recently tendered a testimonial dinner in recognition of his forty years of service.

Rev. G. U. Wenner, founder and only pastor of the Christ Lutheran Church of New York City celebrated his sixty-first anniversary of his pastorate recently. He is eighty-five years old, having taken the congregation when he was 24.

A gift from the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial of one million dollars to the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission society was recently announced. The purpose of the fund is the promotion of the spirit and teachings of Christ among mankind, irrespective of race, color or creed.

Harold Begbie, known to the religious world as the author of "Twice Born Men" and several similar books died recently at his home in Hampshire, England. He was fifty-eight years old at the time of his death.

Toyohiko Kagawa, the outstanding Christian of Japan, has recently been appointed honorary advisor to the social bureau of the government of Tokyo. He has often been described as the modern St. Francis because of his sacrificial labors in behalf of the poorest classes of Japan. He is at present the leader in the "One Million Souls' Movement," a remarkable effort to build up the Christian Church.

Mound Bayou, the negro town in Mississippi, where no white man has ever lived, is about to tear down its city jail since it has had fulfill our part better in making our home more Christian."

BOOK REVIEW

"Child Guidance," by Blanton, The Century Company, is a practical guide for parents in the training of children from birth to adolescence. Its purpose is to help parents better understand child behavior in the light of recent psychological discoveries.

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. In what respects was the child life in the days of Jesus different from child life today?

2. What are the fundamentals in the highest type of an education for children and youth?

3. What are the central elements in a Christian home life?

4. How did Jesus find his mission in life, and how shall young people of today find their mission in life?

5. What great changes take place in youth about the age of twelve and how should these changes be best directed?

6. How should parental authority and liberty of self-development in children be related?

Clericus says, "Life with Jesus was not idleness, or wealth, or pleasure, but service in the Father's house. Many people waste a good portion of their life in learning the purpose of that life, and some even die without knowing why they were born."

Lesson Prayer, "We pray for a revival of the ideal home life as found in the home where Jesus was a child. Help us to study that home and practice its program and

How should we spend Thanksgiving Day?

Spend it joyously. Nehemiah said "The day is holy to the Lord your God; mourn not, neither be ye sorry, for the joy of the Lord is your strength."

Spend it religiously. Read such a psalm as the 103rd or a psalm of confidence as the 91st or comforting words such as found in John 14.

Spend it helpfully. Especially try to serve everyone you touch during the day. Make your household happier for your being in it. Be of assistance to the poor or lonely and seek to make someone's day brighter.

A THANKSGIVING LEGEND

King Richard Coeur de Lion frequently repeated this legend to his comrades to instill in them the spirit of gratitude.

There was once a pit dug to entrap wild beasts and while a rich Venetian was walking through the forest, he fell into it. He found at the bottom a lion and a serpent. Seeing a companion in misery, the beasts did no harm to the Venetian.

Eventually a poor woodcutter heard their cries and discovered them in the pit. The rich Venetian offered rich rewards to the woodcutter if he would assist him in getting out of the pit. The lion and the serpent crawled up the ladder the first and crunched humbly at the feet of the woodcutter, but the rich Venetian went on his way without so much as a word of gratitude. Later the serpent brought to the woodcutter's hut a precious jewel and the lion brought a dead goat as a token of gratitude. And when the townspeople heard of the gratitude of the beasts and the thoughtlessness of the Venetian, they compelled him to fulfill his promise to the poor woodcutter even to the half of his kingdom.

THE CRIME OF FORGETFULNESS

There is no greater crime committed by any one of us than that of forgetfulness. The common mercies of life we take for granted because we receive them with such marvelous regularity and the hand of the Giver is invisible.

Our petitions for favors are likely to greatly outnumber our thanks for blessings received. There is an old legend which tells of two angels sent to earth with a basket, one to gather up the prayers of the people and the other to gather their thanksgiving. When they returned they were grieved to find the first basket filled to overflowing and the other nearly empty. Our blessings are usually equal to our needs and far outnumber our misfortunes.

ON SCANDINAVIAN LITERATURE HERE

Dr. John O. Evjen, professor at Wittenberg College, Springfield, addressed members of the Friends of Books Club at the Greene County Public Library Thursday evening, on the subject of "Modern Scandinavian Writers."

Dr. Evjen spoke first of Sigrid Undset's writings and rated Kristin Lavransdatter as one of the greatest of mediaeval novels. "This trilogy is finer than the series which follow, of which The Axe and Snake Pitt are the first two," he said.

"However," he added, "the latter are perhaps more gripping." Miss Undset's strength rests in her delineation of love and religion according to Dr. Evjen.

The work of Bojer was discussed at less length. This author's best work, the speaker said, was "The Great Hunger." He likened "The Prisoner Who Sang" to Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Knut Hamsun, whose name is assumed, he said has not the finish of the first two writers. It was of interest to his audience to learn that Hamsun was at one time a street car conductor in America.

Selma Lagerof, another winner of the Nobel prize, depicts an ideal side of Swedish life said Dr. Evjen. Her best books are the story of "Gosta Berling" and "Jerusalem." The material for the latter was secured during the author's sojourn in Palestine.

Coming down through a number of Norwegian writers the speaker came to Rolvaag's "Giants of the Earth." This Dr. Evjen said, he considered the greatest of modern Scandinavian novels. His own life in Wisconsin for a number of years, he told his audience, showed him how truly the author knew the people he wrote about.

NEURITIS IS BANISHED BY NEW KONJOLA

Grateful Lady Tells How Modern Medicine Relieved Her Of Intense Suffering

"I had been a victim of dreadful neuritis for some time," said Mrs. Cora Sebald, 268 South Davis Ave., Columbus, Ohio. "The pains settled mostly in my shoulders and arms. My joints were stiff and sore, and they swelled terribly. My hands and fingers cramped so that it was impossible for me to hold anything in them. I was practically helpless and terribly discouraged over my inability to find relief.

"But it did not take long for Konjola to change my entire outlook on life. The pains and swelling gradually lessened and before long every single trace of neuritis disappeared. What a relief to drop this burden of suffering after years of torture. I could hardly believe that it was possible for one medicine to do so much but it is a fact. Konjola proved to me that it is a wonderful medicine. I cannot praise it too highly."

Konjola is a new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. Konjola works quickly and thoroughly at the very root, the fount of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

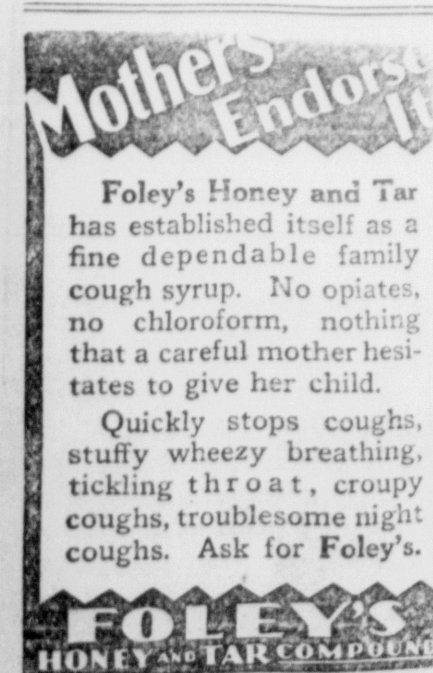

Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief, but to bring new, glorious and lasting health.

Konjola is sold in Xenia at Gallagher drug store and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section. —Adv.

CHANGE NOON HOUR FOR PUPILS

APPROXIMATELY 2,000 pupils in the Xenia public schools hailed with delight an announcement made by Louis Hammerie, city school superintendent, that starting next Monday and continuing throughout the remainder of the school year, the noon hour will be lengthened by fifteen minutes.

Because the noon meal of a large number of parents of school children is determined by the fact Xenia industrial plants close in the morning at 11:30 o'clock, school authorities have decided that pupils shall hereafter also be dismissed at 11:30 a. m. instead of 11:45 o'clock as has previously been the case.

Classes will convene for the afternoon session at the same time as before in order not to interfere with the schedule of those pupils who ordinarily have their noon meal at 12 o'clock.

Each morning class period will be shortened slightly in order to make up the fifteen minutes deducted, it is announced.

DISTRICT OFFICER

MISS GORDON

Miss Alice Gordon, daughter of Clarence Gordon, 548 Cincinnati Ave., was elected secretary of the seventh district, Luther League of the Ohio Synod, for the coming year at the annual southern conference held in Urbana recently. There were 120 registered delegates from southwestern Ohio in attendance.

SCHOOL EXCEEDS CHEST QUOTA

PUPILS of St. Brigid parochial school subscribed more than 50 per cent over their quota for the Xenia Community Chest in a one-day solicitation, according to a report to campaign headquarters by the Rev. David Powers, pastor and head of the school Friday.

Based on the assignment of maximum subscriptions for school children of various ages made in the junior community chest organization, the parochial school quota was $7.50. The total subscription there, however, resulted in $11.52 being collected for the chest.

The Rev. Father Powers announced Wednesday that a one-day canvass would be made among the children Thursday and by Thursday noon the solicitation was completed. The results showed that every room subscribed 100 per cent to the fund. The largest individual donation was the maximum of ten cents each assigned to high school pupils, the fixed amounts of the junior chest being adhered to.

NAMED ON TAXATION BODIES BY COOPER

P. H. CRESWELL

Paul H. Creswell, Greene County auditor, has been designated by Governor Myers Y. Cooper as a member of one of two committees appointed to study existing taxation laws.

The governor's committee includes a few opponents of the constitutional amendment adopted at the recent November election. Auditor Creswell, who opposed adoption of the amendment, was one of only two county auditors named on the committee, the other being John A. Zangerle, auditor of Cuyahoga County, who favored the amendment.

A similar committee was designated a few days ago by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce and on November 26 the All-Ohio Tax League is scheduled to meet to determine whether a third committee shall be named, as indicated recently.

The membership of the two committees is not identical but is overlapping, the governor's committee being the larger.

It is pointed out that the governor's committee may be subdivided in perhaps as many as twelve different groups to study various phases of the taxation subject, each group having a chairman and the chairmen of the various groups forming the executive committee.

Findings of the governor's committee will be reported at the convening of the state legislature in 1931, the belief being that the general assembly will welcome any carefully considered information such as will aid in formulating a constructive legislative program looking to an equitable tax law in which all the citizens have a vital interest.

Members of the committee, which is bi-partisan and generally representative, are, by experience, familiar with taxation matters, it is declared.

Poems that Live

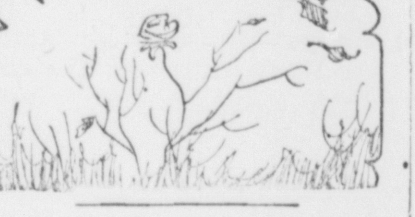

"TIS THE LAST ROSE OF SUMMER"

Tis the last rose of summer,
Left blooming alone;
All her lovely companions
Are faded and gone;
No flower of her kindred,
No rose-bud is nigh,
To reflect back her blushes,
Or give sigh for sigh.

I'll not leave thee, thou lone one!
To pine on the stem;
Since the lovely are sleeping,
Go, sleep thou with them.
Thus kindly I scatter
Thy leaves o'er the bed
Where thy mates of the garden
Lie scentless and dead

So soon may I follow
When friendships decay,
And from Love's shining circle
The gems drop away.
When true hearts lie withered,
And fond ones are flown,
O who would inhabit
This bleak world alone?

KILLENS WILL BE ENTERTAINMENT ON PROGRAM AT BEAVER

Headed by Tess Sheehan, the Killarney Killers will entertain on the Beaver Grange Lyceum entertainment course, Wednesday evening, November 27. Irish stories and dramatic numbers will be featured. Theresa Sheehan, the featured artist, has the true Irish appreciation of wholesome fun, and is blessed with a contagious laugh that will be associated with her name long after the drop of the curtain. Somehow or other folks just naturally like Tess Sheehan for her outstanding good nature. They laugh with her, they thrill with her, and their fancy romps with her creative moods. The New York Mirror hit the nail on the head when it remarked that "Miss Sheehan's work is that of an artist, because it is done without affectation."

During her career as an entertainer, Miss Sheehan has appeared in every state and province in the United States and Canada. She is famous for her Irish stories, such as "Hooley's Wan Chick," "The Man Who Planted the Hungry Grass," "Danny," and such Tom Daly poems as "Katy's Graduating Day." She also gives interesting cuttings from "The White-Headed Boy," Dr. Frank Crane's Optimistic philosophy, and a great variety of character impersonations and imitations.

Appearing with Miss Sheehan is Miss Mae Saltmarsh, trombonist, who has been a popular entertainer with the Redpath Bureau for several seasons.

READ THIS FIRST:

Rosalie March, seventeen, secures a position at the hosiery counter of a store through the kindness of Kenessa Du Barry, actress. She is adored by her landlady, Mother Murphy, and little Tim O'Hara, the corner newsie. Rosalie discovers a run in her only pair of silk stockings. She wears an old cotton pair to the store, much to the amusement of the salesgirls. In desperation, she decides to take a silk pair from stock and make good for them pay day. She drops them and is observed by Alberto Martino, the store detective, who threatens to arrest her unless she agrees to hide some suitcases in her room for him. Rosalie is frightened and agrees. In the meantime Roy Clarke Andrews, nephew of the owner of the store, falls in love with Rosalie and asks her to marry him. Rosalie is called to the phone. Rosalie and Roy are tricked to a flying field, where Roy is kidnapped.

Rosalie is released by the gang after being cautioned to say nothing. She finally gets on a street car.

Rosalie is afraid to say anything about Roy's disappearance. Ann Shultz, salesgirl, questions her. Martino is in the plot, and calls to see Rosalie, threatening her to keep still.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIX
Rosalie got up slowly, a wave of fury and hatred pouring over her until she could hardly breathe.

"You killed him! You dirty rat!" She was surprised that it was her voice that rasped Tim's favorite epithet out at him. He grabbed her arm and shook her roughly.

"Shut yer trap—your little fool!" She had lost complete control of herself.

"I won't! I won't! I'm going to tell. I want to die."

Martino held an arm around her and put a dirty hand over her mouth.

"You'll get your wish, damn you. If you let another sound out of you."

She sunk down on the bed then and he released her. When she could speak she asked him wretchedly:

"Why did you come here again? Haven't you done just about everything you can?"

"I come to make sure this big shoutin' in the evening papers didn't scare you into actin' like a nut and givin' me away."

"Then," Rosalie stormed at him, afraid again, "would you do if I did tell everything I know?"

"Gawd," he laughed at her, impatiently, "ain't we made it clear enough?"

"But—suppose I don't care. I—I've nothing to live for now—"

Martino looked surprised.

"What'da you mean you ain't got nothin' to live for? Ain't you got as much as you had before?"

"I loved Roy Andrews," she sobbed out then. "We were going to be married."

He sat back and stared at her in astonishment.

"Apple sauce! Not that bird with all that money—"

In a moment he laughed again.

"I don't blame you for havin' the weeps. That's a lot of jack to let slip through your fingers, kid—"

"I loved Roy Andrews," she sobbed out then. "We were going to be married."

He sat back and stared at her in astonishment.

"Apple sauce! Not that bird with all that money—"

In a moment he laughed again.

He was trying to buy her off. It didn't sound possible. He was trying to buy HER silence. When she did not answer him for disgust he thought she was thinking it over.

"A swell dame like you shouldn't work any more," he always says to Spry and the boys it's a shame to see them pretty little hands and dimples where they ain't gettin' you nowhere. If you dolled up in a lot of swell rags and went over to Paree you'd knock 'em dead—"

Her brain began to function a little more clearly. Maybe—if she made him think she might take up his proposition he might let her know exactly what they had done with Roy. If he had been killed, where they had buried him.

He saw that she was getting ready to speak and waited. Rosalie controlled her tears.

"If I did go away—somewhere where I'd never see anyone who knew me would you tell me what has happened to Roy?"

"Sure," Martino said it a little too quickly.

She knew he was lying. She could never trust him. With a despondent gesture she waved the idea aside.

"I couldn't trust you anyway—"

That seemed to anger him.

"You couldn't, eh? Well, I ain't done you no harm yet, have I? Didn't I promise to not harm a hair of your head if you kept your trap shut after you stole the stockings?"

He got up and sat in the rickety chair, his anger and fear mounting.

"You don't trust me, eh? Think I'd lie to you?"

It was Rosalie who laughed this time, wildly.

"Oh, no, I'd trust you anywhere. You wouldn't harm a hair of anybody's head. You haven't done a thing to me—not a thing. I'll take your ten thousand dollars and go away and be perfectly happy—happy—"

Martino was scared when she looked at him and kept on laughing. A Jane that would throw hysterics like that would do almost anything crazy. She couldn't possibly keep her trap shut. Maybe she'd go crazy and tell on him and he'd get caught.

He leaned over and hissed at her threateningly.

"Shut yer trap or I'll bump you off right now."

The little gun under the pillow! She had moved her hand and touched it. A wave of blessed relief poured through her. Tim's little gun. She could kill him with it.

Martino was so floored when he found himself looking into it that he stepped back almost to the door. Then he was sure it wasn't loaded. With a vile oath he leaped forward. His intentions were to choke her to death and get away by the fire escape.

But as he lunged for her a shot rang out.

Martino dropped like a lump of lead at her feet.

She did not hear the pounding on the door—or mother's voice crying to her frantically. She had fallen in a dead faint beside him.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

THE RICH, FRUITY LAXATIVE AND TONIC FOR CHILDREN

"MY little son, George, became bilious, pale, and listless," says Mrs. G. C. Kohl, 1155 Oxford Road, Cleveland, Ohio. "He was never hungry and didn't digest what he ate. He was constipated."

"I decided to try California Fig Syrup; and it has been a blessing. Now his bowels are regular; he has a fine appetite and perfect digestion. I give him a little Fig Syrup, now and then, when he seems to need its help, and it keeps him gaining."

Giving children California Fig Syrup is the finest way to do away with the ills caused by constipation. This is the way children like; that doctors approve. This pure vegetable product just suits a child's system. It moves the bowels gently without griping or discomfort. It helps tone and strengthen bowels and stomach so they continue to act naturally. A child's whole system soon reacts to its purifying and energizing qualities. Prove it the next time your child develops those first symptoms of a clogged system—bad breath or coated tongue.

Emphasize the name California in buying, to avoid imitations.
